The Weekly Beacon

SIX PAGES.

Vice President Vilas is an aptitude that it would please the President's Postmaster General to promote. For this he would spread his fulsome flatteries far more freely.

Cleveland's Baltimore business is bad, many times worse than the corrupt affiliations in Indianapolis that resulted there last week in the re-election of the Republican mayor by a majority nearly a thousand-fold greater than he had before. Let Grover be warned by this, for his German gang can not carry Baltimore this year except by far worse than their accustomed frauds and even then may need to add riot and possibly murder to complete their work.

Railroads breed trouble for themselves at the earliest moment in many localities none so surely as refusing to tell the truth about deadly accidents. Such suppression and misrepresentation as the Chicago & Atlantic officials were guilty of over the great wreck on their line yesterday, should be met with severe and prompt punishment. It is without a single justification, and only confirms the belief that the insanity is too terrible to have the truth told about it.

It is said now that Hon. W. T. Wallace is in favor for State Senator in the interest of John H. McLean for United States Senator. This may be true, but from London that this universal grabber has got the Commercial Cable away from Mackay. In this case the United Lines' land wires would soon follow the way of the B. & O. telegraph. Probably it would get the government lines, too, should Congress establish postal telegraphy in obedience to the growing public demand.

A Chicago dispatch says they have news from New York that Gould has secured control of the New Jersey Central, Reading, and Baltimore & Ohio. On the face of this comment sent from London that this universal grabber has got the Commercial Cable away from Mackay. In this case the United Lines' land wires would soon follow the way of the B. & O. telegraph. Probably it would get the government lines, too, should Congress establish postal telegraphy in obedience to the growing public demand.

It is a matter for Republican self-congratulation that, the Democrats cannot or will not do over again the work of ten years ago committed to Cleveland convention in two senses) and make better choices of the white elephants on their State ticket. When Messrs. Powell and Coolman are interred beneath 20,000 or 30,000 Republican ballots that for the political historian will have to write, "Manager of the fraud and forgery campaign of 1887" upon the tomb of the former, and "Disbursing Agent for the Hoodlers in 1887" and "Contract Labor Importer" upon the latter.

No wonder that Cleveland stayed three days in obscure Madison, Wisconsin, though he dodged the great State of Ohio and paid almost as little attention to the almost equally great State of Illinois, when we think that Madison is the home of that most fawning of flatterers, W. F. Vilas, who first among Americans tells the people's President that to his "personal keeping are committed not only the sovereignty and dignity of the nation, but the weal or woe of sixty millions of their race, and a limitless posterity." This is still a republic, not a monarchy, such as those words would imply, but under Mr. Grover's fancy, as is shown by his preference for Vilas above all others in his Cabinet.

Sarah M. Perkins writes a newspaper card to correct the report that Miss Willard said at Springfield, O., at the convention of the W. C. T. U., that "the Republican party would be grand and triumphant in 1888, and grander and more triumphant in 1892." This was entirely needless, for the W. C. T. U. in Ohio which calls itself "loyal" is just as partisan for the Prohibition party and therefore bitter against the Republican cause, as the most ardent advocate of the policy of crushing the Republican party, jesuit desire. There is a non-partisan W. C. T. U. in some cities and it had an organizing State convention at Elyria (not Springfield) last week, but it is not officially represented in Akron or in Summit County, so far as the public know.

The western trip of the President has come to be recognized by the press of both sides now as nothing more nor less than a unique bid for a second term of office, in which Mrs. C. is doing as much of the hard work as Grover himself—yes, more. Does not the ghost of his original letter of acceptance—"I will be President—in a deep his sleep disturbed occasionally by a deep sepulchral voice repeating these words:

"We appeal in the stupidity of the President for re-election a most serious danger to that calm, deliberate, and noble political action which alone must characterize a government by the people."

By the by, what are the views of the Democratic press, the Cleveland Plain Dealer, for instance, on this utterance of the President's touching the idea of a second term?

Nothing can be more insincere and demagogical than the Democratic attempt to prove that Foraker has shown a disposition to snub the farmers. All may be fair in politics as in war, as to love and war; but one cannot help regarding with impatience a campaign lie so weak and puerile and transparent as that by which Foraker is proved to be at variance with the cultivators of the soil. As Foraker has himself shown by indisputable proofs, he was born on a farm, and lived and worked there until the war broke out. All his relatives are farmers, and all his highest and dearest interests are with the agricultural class. Every childish claim that he is not in sympathy with the natural lords of the soil comes with peculiarly ill grace from a man like Powell, or a party that has made Powell its candidate.

The M. E. Church will have a chance to pass upon the gender of the word "layman" at its next general conference in New York. The Rock River conference has elected Miss Frances Willard as a delegate to that conference, and the Colorado conference has chosen Mrs. Angie Newman. This is the first instance of ladies being sent to an M. E. conference as "laymen." Doubtless the ladies have consented to go, more in order to settle the issue as to whether the word "layman" may be construed as including women, and in order to establish a precedent in favor of their sex, than because they relish the idea of being the only ladies to pair disparate in so large a convention. They will hold that the last syllable of the word is used in its generic sense. The Beacon's latest edition of Webster defines laity as "the people in distinction from the clergy", and layman as "one of the people in distinction from the clergy."

Hancock County has had its fill of Democratic wing rule, with no excuse for relief through an occasional Republican office-holder. The auditor's books at Findlay show that for the year ending with September 30, the taxpayers of Hancock county paid in salaries to their Democratic officials the enormous sum of $30,604.36. This does not include what the people paid direct to the officials, but only the payments direct from the county treasury. Yet the State Journal appeals to that the sum total is so large, if not larger, than what the people of Franklin County, with a population nearly double, are paying on a like service. Besides all this, the county paid out during the same period in bounties for primary destruction of surveyor and coroner, the figures of which were not obtainable when this table was made up, and it is no wonder that Hancock County taxpayers are calling for a "change?"

The revolt against Boss Gorman and his gang is the only hopeful thing in Democratic politics in Baltimore. Even the Democratic papers take no pains to conceal the monstrous iniquities which have been clutched and fostered by the Democratic party in the Maryland metropolis. The New York World of recent date contains an article giving the names and brief biographies of 37 Democratic criminals who are very prominent in Baltimore politics, and stating that half of the members of the Democratic Central Committee of the city are convicts. It is notorious that 35,000 names were illegally registered in the city. The reformers, in letting the party ticket alone, will put influence into operation which will cut off 40,000 fictitious names, leaving a difference of 6,000 votes, and expect that fully 6,000 decent Democrats will also revolt with them and help make the rotten rotter of the party with which the President is disposed to affiliate. His General Labor views are also expected. With these expectations all real d, it is hoped to defeat the infamous ring by about 6,000 votes, despite the fact that the city of Baltimore is not allied with the reform movement as it was in New York in the case of the great bribery exposures. The President, the salient apostle of civil service reform, can see in this a new and, and not place his sympathies with those who are revolting from one of the most corrupt rings ever in the history of politics in this country. Well, if the thing is refused, he must expect to be rebuked along with it.

The Chicago News has been interviewed on the subject of the Democratic administration of President Cleveland. Hon. Chauncey F. Filley (Dem.) of St. Louis, reporter, thinks that on this point Messrs. Powell and Coolman are interred beneath 20,000 or 30,000 Republican ballots that for the political historian will have to write, "Manager of the fraud and forgery campaign of 1887" upon the tomb of the former, and "Disbursing Agent for the Hoodlers in 1887" and "Contract Labor Importer" upon the latter.

No wonder that Cleveland stayed three days in obscure Madison, Wisconsin, though he dodged the great State of Ohio and paid almost as little attention to the almost equally great State of Illinois, when we think that Madison is the home of that most fawning of flatterers, W. F. Vilas, who first among Americans tells the people's President that to his "personal keeping are committed not only the sovereignty and dignity of the nation, but the weal or woe of sixty millions of their race, and a limitless posterity." This is still a republic, not a monarchy, such as those words would imply, but under Mr. Grover's fancy, as is shown by his preference for Vilas above all others in his Cabinet.

Sarah M. Perkins writes a newspaper card to correct the report that Miss Willard said at Springfield, O., at the convention of the W. C. T. U., that "the Republican party would be grand and triumphant in 1888, and grander and more triumphant in 1892." This was entirely needless, for the W. C. T. U. in Ohio which calls itself "loyal" is just as partisan for the Prohibition party and therefore bitter against the Republican cause, as the most ardent advocate of the policy of crushing the Republican party, jesuit desire. There is a non-partisan W. C. T. U. in some cities and it had an organizing State convention at Elyria (not Springfield) last week, but it is not officially represented in Akron or in Summit County, so far as the public know.

The western trip of the President has come to be recognized by the press of both sides now as nothing more nor less than a unique bid for a second term of office, in which Mrs. C. is doing as much of the hard work as Grover himself—yes, more. Does not the ghost of his original letter of acceptance—"I will be President—in a deep his sleep disturbed occasionally by a deep sepulchral voice repeating these words:

"We appeal in the stupidity of the President for re-election a most serious danger to that calm, deliberate, and noble political action which alone must characterize a government by the people."

By the by, what are the views of the Democratic press, the Cleveland Plain Dealer, for instance, on this utterance of the President's touching the idea of a second term?

Nothing can be more insincere and demagogical than the Democratic attempt to prove that Foraker has shown a disposition to snub the farmers. All may be fair in politics as in war, as to love and war; but one cannot help regarding with impatience a campaign lie so weak and puerile and transparent as that by which Foraker is proved to be at variance with the cultivators of the soil. As Foraker has himself shown by indisputable proofs, he was born on a farm, and lived and worked there until the war broke out. All his relatives are farmers, and all his highest and dearest interests are with the agricultural class. Every childish claim that he is not in sympathy with the natural lords of the soil comes with peculiarly ill grace from a man like Powell, or a party that has made Powell its candidate.

The M. E. Church will have a chance to pass upon the gender of the word "layman" at its next general conference in New York. The Rock River conference has elected Miss Frances Willard as a delegate to that conference, and the Colorado conference has chosen Mrs. Angie Newman. This is the first instance of ladies being sent to an M. E. conference as "laymen." Doubtless the ladies have consented to go, more in order to settle the issue as to whether the word "layman" may be construed as including women, and in order to establish a precedent in favor of their sex, than because they relish the idea of being the only ladies to pair disparate in so large a convention. They will hold that the last syllable of the word is used in its generic sense. The Beacon's latest edition of Webster defines laity as "the people in distinction from the clergy", and layman as "one

TERSPIED TELEGRAMS.

From Wednesday's Daily Beacon.

New York Evening World Monday noon, 11,111 last copies of first issue.

A three days' celebration of the centennial of Susquehanna County is in progress at Great Bend, Pa.

Minnesota & Northwestern Road intends to build 100 miles of new thousand mile tickets from $25 to $20.

Assistant Secretary Maynard, at Washington, has decided that adult children cannot be allowed to land on Ellis Island.

At Halifax, N. S., election of Sir Charles Tupper to Dominion House of Commons has been voided on account of bribery by his agents.

The Hon. Randolph J. Tucker, of Virginia, has been retained to assist Hon. Roger A. Pryor in defending the appeal to Chicago Anarchists to U. S. Supreme Court.

At Vienna, Duchess of Cumberland, the wife and last male issue of Ernest Augustus of Hanover, has completely recovered her reason, and will leave the institution on Saturday.

Ohio and Eastern capitalists have purchased 10,000 acres of coal, and 11,000 acres of timber land in Breathitt County, Ky., and organized the Kentucky Coal Land Company. Mines will at once be opened and roads built.

In an address Sunday night at Dubuque, Congressman Dolliver stated that in the past nine years the old-fashioned homestead and farm had been killed 641 railroad employes in Iowa, and crippled for life 1,439 persons.

Two men robbed Jacob S. Gills, an aged and demented citizen of Hamilton, of $865 Sunday morning. They broke into his house, and while one compelled him to tell where he had his money the other looked.

Connecticut branch of Federation of Labor has a new order. Organization is growing, and making accessions from the Knights of Labor, Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, and other trades unions.

Three hundred Russian subjects under Lyed Kinkel, Ph. D., have settled in the guise of merchants. Elaborate military precautions are being taken at Herat. Trees are being removed and the moat and ditch are being joined into one.

Chattanooga, Tenn, city election on Tuesday was hottest ever fought, and John B. Necklin, Democrat, was elected over Charles Hendrix, Republican, by 118 majority. All Republican Aldermen were elected. The Democrat Council got one.

New York Sun says: It is said that the second of present efforts to form a sugar trust combination is desire of some of older and richer refiners to get out of business. It is a hard business to get out of, for the value of a sugar house, while very expensive, is absolutely unsalable.

At Newark, N. J., Haynes, Dem., was elected Mayor by a majority of 1,409. His total vote was 10,730 Kelsey, Rep., received 9,321, and Pine, Law and Order and Prohibition candidate, got 3,407. Pentecost, elected trustee of the Labor party, got 1,945 votes. It was a big surprise for all concerned. The Democratic and Law and Order Association were elected, making two Democratic Aldermen, two Republicans, and two Democrats, or enough to overcome the majority in the Board.

American Exchange National Bank of New York was yesterday selected as a government depository. Personal deposits with the depository banks may be allowed to hold upon bonds received and held to secure them, in order to allow the banks to make profitable use of the deposits. The system is now being utilized in this way.

Baltimore, Md., Commissioner Rogers has set aside Clayton M. Emerich and John Martin, charged with conspiracy to defraud the U. S. government by introducing a diseased cow into a herd of sound cattle with the intention of obtaining from government the value of such reform. Held for actual value.

In Pittsburg, general resumption of work at the window glass manufactories is expected to-day. Number of men now employed is 3,000, and since July 1 is about 5,000. They go to work on the basis of the new scale of wages. The shut-down has reduced the large surplus of glass on hand, and outlook for Winter's business is very satisfactory.

William L. Gilbert, of Winsted, Conn., who has been in charge of construction and maintenance of an orphan asylum for colored boys, which will soon give the town a public academy, and is arranging plans. Mr. Gilbert's private fortune will reach upward of $600,000. He is past 80 years of age, but is still actively engaged in business.

Mrs. Lucretia Garfield sailed on the Cunard steamer Servia, Liverpool, with her daughter Mollie. Friends of Mrs. Garfield say that the object of the journey of a county, daughter of late James Mason, of Chicago, who was married on occasion of wedding of Miss Mollie to J. Stanley Brown, which was to have occurred in London, but was put off until abroad this Winter.

Henry C. Kennemer, of Pawtucket, in address at laying of corner-stone of new building of Providence Methodist Episcopal Church, Sunday, denounced the use of knights of Labor and Grand Army and godless, and a source of immorality. Bishop Andrews, presiding, took no official notice of the remarks, but a Methodist Episcopal minister in the audience publicly protested against his sentiments.

Executive committee of the International Typographical Union, in session at Indianapolis, issued an address to confer with Publishers' Association, which meeting was called for the purpose to induce harmony between all honorable parties now at variance, and the restoration of rights of each, and voted that the eight-hour law and all its provisions be suspended.

It is stated that sugar refiners contemplate the formation of a sugar trust with $50,000,000 of capital represented by stock, and that the object is to stay out of the combination and trade-dollar refiners. Apparently the