Steed began that Steed's remark is a "slur on every woman employed by the senate." Dirksen, a somewhat flippant Stedward, referred to Steed last week as "the white charger from Oklahoma."

Steed said he has volunteered to quit as head of house conferees and a senator's statement. But he said Congressman Clarence Cannon (D) of Missouri, the chairman of the house appropriations committee, vetoed any such action.

Dirksen is reported to have advised house leaders that there will be a discussion on the matter on the senate floor.

Steed, annoyed by the senate's stand against free mailing privileges for congressmen, told a newsman a few weeks ago the senate has some privileges of its own. He mentioned that he knows of two call girls on an unspecified senator's payroll.

Senators appeared annoyed about the views of Steed and his house colleagues on the "junk" mail issue as well as call girl allegation. Prospects are that the senator will send the money bill back to a senate-house conference committee where Steed heads the house delegation.

Senate Republican leader Everett Dirksen of Illinois told newsmen before the de-
