Industrial Waste: An End To Patience

PATIENCE is a handy virtue—useful to maiden ladies, jailbirds and stage-struck inmates. But there is a limit. The outermost edges of that limit has been reached by the City of Charlotte which has set some sort of a marathon record for nonstop patience in its attitude toward Sugar Creek industries.

The UN: Bush Leaguer Goes To Bat

NATIONALIST China seems determined to escape temporarily its role as a bush league power by clubbing 18 other countries away from the United Nations with the veto power.

Sethback Program Should Be Pushed

THIS week's shoulder-to-shoulder efforts to speed up the building setback program on Charlotte's streets was a demonstration of civic team play at its best.

The Sky Is Fourteen Feet Away

FROM the very start of the Children's Nature Museum eight years ago the Junior League of Charlotte was a sturdy friend and supporter of the museum.

A BOY'S POCKETS

WE MAY have stumbled upon a leading cause for juvenile delinquency: There's little to be found in the pockets of today's little boys and just about nothing of interest.

Reduction Of Foreign Aid Now Is Monumental Folly

By WALTER LIPPMANN

IN appraising the NEW YORK doings in the Middle East and South Asia, it may be useful to note that for the second time since the end of the war the Soviet Union has broken what was long supposed was a monopoly.

Do We Have To Get There By Election Time?

Washington seems to be whether to cut down or to increase the appropriations for foreign aid. It so seems to me, to be a monumental folly to reduce the appropriations. It is most desirable that they should be increased.

A Son Of Ishmael Can Pull Many Things From His Fez

By ROBERT C. RUARK

PORT SAID, Egypt I HAVE JUST been mesmerized by one of the local Mohammedans. One of his local gentlemen who say, 'Hi, gulla, gulla, gulla. Do please look see, watch, gentlemen, whilst he fetches a cobra out of his waistcoat or some such.

Atheist Cannot Be A Good American
Editors, The News: SOMEBODY, I really disremember who, claimed in these columns that an atheist was just as good an American as the next man.

The Mastery Of Nature

BY RUSSELL DAVENPORT
In "The Dignity of Man" DURING the exciting centuries when science was in hot pursuit of the mastery of nature, the underlying question of whether its quantitative concepts represented the truth about man and the universe could be disregarded.

Jefferson — "My God! how little do my countrymen know what precious blessings they are in possession of, and which no other people on earth enjoy."

Drew Pearson's Merry-Go-Round Caudle Just A Country Boy At Heart

WASHINGTON: MRS. Lamar Caudle phoned me from St. Louis the other day. She was quite upset. She had come out to St. Louis with her husband when he testified before a grand jury and had offered to testify with him.

Troustful Too

"My daddy raised me to think no evil of any man," Lamar once reproved a friend who warned him about his dinner associates. "These people have been kind to Filby and my children, and I'm afraid to be seen with 'em."

Distraught Wife

It's pretty hard to give long-distance advice to a distraught wife. I'm afraid I won't much help. But later I dug into my files and found I had written about the same tax scandal five years before.

Caudle Was Frank

On the surface this wouldn't appear to help Mrs. Lamar Caudle much. Publication of almost the same facts, as unearthed by Drew Pearson's Newsweek five years later might even appear to incriminate Mrs. Caudle's husband.
