Grace Kelly Isn't Only One In Movie

By EMERY WISTER
(Charlotte News Movie Editor)

Everyone has been so busy celebrating and adoring Grace Kelly's appearance in Asheville that they have completely forgotten the man in her film life. Oh, yes, "The Swan" is like all other movies. There are men in it too. And it's already been mentioned that Louis Jourdan is one of the principal males in the cast. But did you know that Alec Guinness, the funny lover boy of British films, is in the group? And smooth, suave Brian Aherne, and Leo G. (Topper) Carroll. Other women include Agnes Moorehead, Jessie Royce and Estelle Winwood.

ON THE SCENE
All principals should be on the scene by the end of the week. Burton will be filmed on the Billmore Estate a few miles from the city.

A three-weeks shooting schedule has been set by MGM Producer Dore Schary. He'll probably be on the scene too.

Eddie Arnold stepped out of his "Don Juan in Hell" role and Kurt Kazan stepped in. That's the group that's penciled in the new David Ovens auditorium here.

Richard Boone, top man in TV's "Medic," has been ill but once. He had measles. And by the way, Dick tells me he hopes to start "Devil's Footprint" some time this fall. That's the movie that was written by former Charlotte News City Editor Lucien Agard. The movie has a Munich locale and is now on duty with the State Dept. in Vienna. Will be close enough to give technical advice if the picture is made overseas.

NEW PICTURE: "Count Three and Pray" makes Van Heflin a two-listed preacher who brings religion to rough Virginia hill country just after the Civil War. The action is roud and rowdy and the talk is more so. This 'un will make your ears pop.

It's been open less than two months and already one million persons have poured through the Disneyland gates. Richard Burton goes through quite a flood scene in "Rains of Ranchipur." First 5,000 gallons of water were poured on him, then he was hit by two tons of debris from two collapsing buildings. And on top of that 10 fire hoses shot streams of aqua on him just so he wouldn't dry out in the sun.

"The Cobweb," a top-bracket psychological film opened in the Alhambra Rd., Thrift, and Pineville Rd. Drive-Ins Sunday. Business was absolutely terrific. I love this Hollywood columnist Mike Connolly had a meal in a restaurant, then asked for his check. The check said: "Please PAW cashier."
