

Bizarre Aftermath Kidnaped Baby Found Unharmed

CHICAGO, Oct. 5 (UP)—The kidnaping of one-month-old Ronald Joseph Bucher was solved today, less than 14 hours after he was taken from his crib. He was returned to his parents unharmed. The child was found with Mrs. Gladys Bynum, 24, in her apartment four miles from the Bucher flat.

Mrs. Bynum told police, "I wanted a baby so much I just took one." She was taken immediately before the Cook County grand jury which reportedly named her in a true bill charging kidnaping.

A bizarre aftermath of the case developed when a woman who saw a picture of the baby's father, Thomas Bucher, a gas station attendant, in a newspaper, named him as the husband who deserted her and their five children 22 months ago.

Mrs. Joan Paternino, 27, told state's attorney's investigators that Bucher was Thomas H. Paternino against whom she obtained a nonsupport warrant two months ago.

Confronted by Mrs. Paternino at the state's attorney's office, the father of the kidnaped child admitted his real name was Paternino and that he was the father of Mrs. Paternino's five children.

The kidnap drama began to unfold a month ago when Mrs. Bynum, married five years, told neighbors she was expecting a baby.

Her husband, Charles, a bus driver, told police he didn't know whether his wife was pregnant, but said she began wearing maternity dresses. Three weeks ago, she bought a bassinet.

Mrs. Bynum's story, as reported by Asst. State's Atty. Robert T. Zadek, related that she paddled her figure with a blanket yesterday afternoon and went to a Southwest side department store where she saw Ronald with his mother, Mrs. Lois Bucher, 21. Mrs. Bynum admired the baby, and then told Mrs. Bucher she felt faint.

Mrs. Bucher invited Mrs. Bynum, whom she had never met before, to her home. Mrs. Bucher gave her some coffee. The baby was taken when Mrs. Bucher went to see kidnaped, Page 5, Col. 8.

Overcome 6-0 Deficit
Dodgers Take Second in Row, 13-8
By Jack Hand
BROOKLYN, Oct. 5 (UP)—The aroused Brooklyn Dodgers staged the greatest winning rally in World Series game since the 1929 Philadelphia A's today to erase a six-run deficit and win the eighth game of the series against the New York Yankees 13-8 for their second straight Series victory.

Trailing 6-0 after Yogi Berra's grand slam homer in the second, the Dodgers thrilled 30,000 Ebbets Field fans with a six-run spurt in the second, capped by Duke Snider's 10th Series homer with two on. Joe Collins' costly error on a potential double play ball opened the gates.

White Manager Casey Stengel paraded seven pitchers to the mound for a record in the longest nine-inning Series game ever played, the Dodgers went on to win on a pair of two-run doubles by quiet Gil Hodges. Junior Gilliam's two-run single in the eighth completed the rout of the proud Yankees.

Sentence Of McKeon Is Reduced By Thomas

Sergeant Can Stay in Marines

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (UP)—Secretary of the Navy Thomas today lifted the bad conduct discharge facing S. Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon for the "death march" of six Marine recruits at Parris Island, S.C., last April.

Thomas also reduced McKeon's court-martial punishment from nine months confinement to three months—leaving him about four weeks to serve—and set aside a $270 fine.

The secretary upheld the drill sergeant's reduction in rank to private, noting this would involve "a much more substantial financial loss" than the fine.

The bad conduct discharge was the severest penalty imposed in the Aug. 3 sentence of a seven-member court that convicted McKeon of negligent homicide and drinking on duty.

In remitting this part of the sentence, Thomas said, "For him I believe that the real punishment will be always the memory of Ribbon Creek."

"Remorse will never leave him."

The 35-year-old career Marine from Worcester, Mass., ordered and led a night disciplinary march last April 7 into marshlands at the Parris Island training depot. Six of the 74 members of the platoon drowned in Ribbon Creek.

Thomas affirmed the court's opinion that McKeon "failed to exercise reasonable care for the safety of the men entrusted to him," and, in upholding his reduction to private, said "just one lapse resulting in such serious consequences is just one lapse too many."

Thomas said that by McKeon's own testimony the drill sergeant acted "on impulse with no previous planning, reconnaissance, evaluation or formal precautionary measures."

Stokes F. Burtis Dies; Executive Of Duplan Corp.

Stokes Fenimore Burtis of 130 Plymouth Avenue, former manager of the Winston plant of the Duplan Corporation, died in a hospital at 6:14 p.m. last night. He was 62 years of age.

Mr. Burtis had been ill since June. He was born at Mount Holly, N. C., Jan. 11, 1893, a son of Anna Stokes Fenimore Burtis and Harvey B. Burtis.

He attended Mount Holy High School, Banks College of Business in Philadelphia, Pa., and the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Burtis served in the Navy during World War I. He began his business career in the credit department of Cambria Iron Company and Midvale Steel Company, moving to Bethlehem Steel Company upon successive mergers of these companies.

In 1929 Mr. Burtis joined the R. K. Laros Silk Company of Bethlehem, Pa., serving as vice president and general manager of the company's plants at Bethlehem, Easton and Miller Heights, Pa.

At the start of World War II the Duplan Corporation took over the silk yarn processing equipment of R. K. Laros Silk Company. Mr. Burtis became associated with the Duplan Corporation in 1941, and established his equipment in Duplan's first North Carolina processing plant in Winston-Salem. This was known as the Winston Division and was located in a portion of

Stevenson Raps GOP's 'Complacency'

Says 'Siren Song' Used to Lull Voters

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 5 (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson accused the Republican party tonight of sowing the "seeds of decay" for the nation by trying to foster a spirit of complacency among the voters.

"We have heard a very great deal and we are going to hear a lot in the weeks ahead about prosperity and peace," Stevenson said in a speech at Yale University.

"But surely the uneven measure of prosperity we now enjoy, and the restlessness and uneasy peace in which we now find ourselves, were not achieved by standing still and admitting them. We have become the world's envy because we never stopped raising our sights, because we constantly set new goals for ourselves even as we gained the old, because pretty good was never good enough."

Stevenson made a fast swing through lower New England after attending the second game of the World Series, at Ebbets Field in Brooklyn, N.Y.

In his speech at Yale, Stevenson said that in periods when he'd played marbles on the beach all summer.

His lashes are so long, though, I couldn't have seen that they'd have gotten between him and the marbles.

Anyway, these 10 Indians were sitting there real calm and peaceful one minute, and the next minute they were twittering and squirming like a flock of canaries with the litch.

The one who yipped out his badge card made two mistakes out of four words and had to do it all over again.

All the time, he stood there looking sheepish and keeping his hands in his pockets when some Democratic was talking.

You'd have thought it was the first time he'd ever been let cross the street by himself, suggested a game of Post Office, he'd have broken and run until he dropped.

Those women, though, they're all have been willing to play.

Most of them said he's not exactly a good looking man.

"He's got appeal," one said. "What he's got is CHARM, as other said."

A third lady said, "It's that Little Boy Look."
"Well, does this mean you'd like to mother him?"
"Oh, NO!" she said, and you could tell she meant it.

Actually, this junior senator from Massachusetts is like Samson. His strength—with the ladies—is least—in his hair.

In Reynolds High Parade Yea, Team! Yea, Kennedy!

It hadn't been planned that way, but there was a cheering section on hand when Sen. John F. Kennedy arrived at the hotel here.

Just as he stepped out of the car, much bedecked convertibles carrying Reynolds High School boosters for last night's football game moved by.

"Yea, Reynolds," the teen-agers in the first car were shouting, about the hubbub of honking horns.

"Yea, Reynolds," the teen-agers in the second car were shouting.

"Yea..." the teen-agers in the third car were shouting and then stopped abruptly as one girl screamed, "There's Senator Kennedy!"

The squeals to follow would have made even Elvis Presley give an extra wiggle.

Main dish at the banquet was roast beef—for everyone but Sen. Kennedy.

Hotel Manager Douglas Boyle reminded convention planners of our anniversary, said Sen. Kennedy, he described that statement as a bad mistake.

Gov. Hodges Allots Funds For Parkway

District Highway Engineer Zeb W. Stewart said yesterday construction of a section of the Silas Creek Parkway linking Wake Forest College and the East-West Expressway will be started "as soon as plans can be prepared in Raleigh."

Gov. Luther H. Hodges allocated $616,000 in surplus highway funds yesterday morning as the first installment toward the cost of the dual-line highway which will eventually tie in with Corporation Parkway in the Southern part of the city.

The $616,000 will cover the cost of an approximately three-mile section running from Reynolds Road in the vicinity of the entrance to Wake Forest to the Expressway near Hawthorne Road extension.

The new road will follow the west bank of Silas Creek and run approximately along Hill Crest Drive to the Expressway. An interchange will be built at the Reynolds.

Senator Speaks At Meet Here

By Jesse Poindexter

Adlai E. Stevenson, candidate for President, and Sen. John F. Kennedy, the man who almost ran with him, addressed the state convention of Far West Young Democrats here last night.

Mr. Stevenson's speech, in which he recalled "many memories" of and "many personal friends" from North Carolina, was by tape recorder and caught by surprise about 450 convention delegates.

But the Massachusetts senator's address was presented "live" by himself, and his slants at the Republican administration evoked as much or more applause than did Mr. Stevenson's remote remarks.

Sen. Kennedy, 39, described the Democratic party as the "party of youth and vigor," adding that "just such meetings as this one indicate that the party is entering into a period of rebirth."

He contrasted his reference to one he be attributed to President Eisenhower.

"Future of Nixon"
"When President Eisenhower talks about the Republican party being the party of the future," he's actually talking about the future of Richard M. Nixon," continued Sen. Kennedy.

"The Democratic party... is the party that offers progress and vision instead of inaction and stagnation; the party that offers real leadership... the kind of leadership young people want."

"Yes, Reynolds," the teen-agers in the first car were shouting, about the hubbub of honking horns.

"Yea, Reynolds," the teen-agers in the second car were shouting.

The Sportin' Life

THE World Series gets a little competition this afternoon from the college football teams.

There's so much going on in the athletic world, in fact, that those guys over in the corner, manning the Journal and Sealair sports desk, don't even have time for a cuppa coffee.

"That doesn't mean the situation isn't well handled, though," said Sen. Kennedy, he described that statement as a bad mistake.

Presidential Race Becomes 'Dog Fight,' Anyone Might Win It, Kennedy Asserts

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) said here yesterday he could not predict Adlai Stevenson would win the presidential election if it were held today but that his chances are getting better all the time. Sen. Kennedy, who nearly won the Democratic vice presidential nomination in Chicago in August, said the presidential race has turned into a "dog fight" and anyone might win. During a short press conference in late afternoon, the youthful-looking Massachusetts senator sized up the situation in a few of the states he has visited recently. He thinks President Eisenhower has a "slight edge" in California. Later Sen. Kennedy was interviewed again in a press conference viewed over WSJS Television. He thinks President Eisenhower has a "slight edge" in Connecticut but that the Democratic senatorial candidate will win in that state. He thinks Massachusetts, his home state, will elect a Democratic governor but that the presidential race is undecided. He thinks there is a good chance that Vermont will elect a Democratic governor but he does not believe Stevenson will carry that state.

Robin Hood Road will be raised to go over the new highway, but it has not been determined whether it will cross Nottingham Road and Country Club at grade or go under those roads.

Wilbur Smith and Associates, traffic consultants who prepared an engineering report on the Silas Creek Parkway, recommended that the road be extended east of Reynolds Road and tied in temporarily with Faculty Avenue.

However, District Highway Commissioner James A. Gray said that the Highway Department does not propose to undertake any construction work east of Reynolds Road.

Mr. Gray indicated that officials of Wake Forest and Reynolds, Inc., wish to make a further study of additional roads needed in the college area and that the Highway Department would abide by their decisions.

Delivery Of Eye Delayed

An eye that left Boston at 6:30 p.m. yesterday for Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem had to make the last leg of its journey by bus.

And late last night, it was not determined if the eye ordered here for the North Carolina Eye Bank For Restoring Sight, Inc., had reached the hospital in time to be transplanted to the patient.

Low visibility at Smith Reynolds Airport forced the airplane, due here at 11:30 p.m. yesterday, to go on to Charlotte.

Mrs. E. W. McClellan of the American Red Cross Motor Corps, was anxiously waiting at the airport for the flight to come in. She was to take the eye from the airport to Baptist Hospital.

Arrangements were made to charter a bus from Charlotte, which was scheduled to arrive at Union Bus Station around 3 a.m. today. Mrs. McClellan was to take the eye from the bus station to the hospital.

A hospital spokesman said the deadline for arrival of the eye was a 24-hour period, and that it could not be used after that time.

Names of the patient and physicians involved in the eye transplant were not disclosed.

Wake Forest Faculty Visits Salem College

The Wake Forest faculty and staff were welcomed to Salem College last night.

In their visit they were more than two weeks behind Wake Forest's male students, but the welcome was certainly as hearty.

Some 175 Wake Forest faculty and staff members and spouses toured Old Salem.

They were then joined by some 100 of their Salem counterparts for dinner in the college refectory.

Salem president, Dr. Dale H. Gramley welcomed the visitors.

Dr. Gramley said the Wake Forest faculty and staff were "a real treat" and that he felt the people put their "natural confidence in the Democratic Party because of its past record."

Charles Donahoe Has Big Night at Bingo

Charles Donahoe of 245 West-14th Street was just his lucky night. He sat down for three games of bingo last night at a Greenboro fair and came away with ten prizes and a five-month old puppy.

Mr. Donahoe, an employee of a Winston-Salem meat market, was at the fair on business and said he just dropped in to play bingo on the way out.

Other allocations included: to purchase property near State Highway Commission Building in Raleigh, $121,860; to improve the right-of-way along the highway from Mount Mitchell, $9,480; for construction of two groves at Carolina Beach to protect Highway U. S. 421, $12,000.

The work at Carolina Beach will supplement 10 locally financed groves being built into the ocean from the beach in an effort to protect the beach strand from storm damage.

The governor also allocated $99,868 for the State Prisons System. This included $33,000 to remodel a building at Woman's Prison to provide additional cell space and a six-cell segregation room for indigent prisoners; $23,168 for additional staff members for the prisons industries program and the bookkeeping division; $15,000 for expanding laundries at Asheville, Salisbury and Caledonia prison camps; $29,700 for air conditioning and landscaping at the new Prison Office Building in Raleigh.

Vargrave St. Youth Is Struck by Car

A seven-year-old child was injured here yesterday when struck by a car at 314 Wroughton Street, Winston-Salem.

Vargrave Street was admitted to Walter Biting Reynolds Memorial Hospital for treatment following the accident about 5:22 p.m.

Police said hospital attendants told them the youth sustained a fractured pelvis. His condition could not be immediately determined.

The boy was struck, police said, when he ran into the path of a car operated by Imogene Blackburn Saunders of 2627 Troy Drive.

14-Year-Old Boy Reported Missing

Forsyth County deputies searched last night for a 14-year-old boy reported missing from home since Thursday.

They said J. A. Warden of Talley Street told them his son, J. A. Warden Jr., left home about 5:30 p.m. and has not been seen since that time.

He was described as being about five feet six inches tall, weighing 110 pounds and having light brown hair and gray eyes. He was wearing blue jeans and a black leather jacket when last seen.

Book Store Operator Loses $100 in Cash

Winston-Salem police searched last night for a bag containing about $100 in cash and a number of checks reported missing from his car by a local merchant.

E. D. Snavely, operator of the Salem Book Store, 9 East Academy Street, told police about 7:15 p.m. that he had the bag with him when he left the store but it was missing when he got home.
