KING AND QUEEN OF THE 1956 Carolinas Carrousel are Herschel H. Everett of Charlotte and Anne Carolyn Cherry of Wadesboro. They were crowned last night at the Carrousel ball at the Coliseum.

Medieval Pageantry Launches Carrousel

By EMERY WISTER
Charlotte News Staff Writer

It was a night of glitter and glamour, pomp and pageantry, lords and their ladies.

It was the annual ball of the Royal Society of the Knights of Carrousel, with the gay trimmings and trappings of a medieval court standing out against the blue steel and white concrete of the Charlotte Coliseum.

Once again red-frocked "Beefeaters" stalked the hall with their long axes, young ladies became princesses and duchesses, and mere men became knights and dukes and one even a king.

TRUMPETS SOUND

Once again heralds blew their trumpets until their cheeks were round as apples. With the Beefeaters they stood at stiff attention as Herschel H. Everett, prominent theater magnate and civic leader was crowned King.

Newscaster Edward R. Morrow, a North Carolina native, and South Carolina Senator Strom Thurmond were made dukes.

Sharon Kay Ritchie Cherry, last year's Miss America, and Betty Lane Cherry of Orangeburg (Miss United States) became duchesses.

Twenty-six Charlotte business and civic leaders were tapped into the society as knights.

Thirty-six young girls from Piedmont communities were honored as princesses.

1,000 ON HAND

The colorful ceremony began about 10 a.m. as approximately 1,000 persons, including spectators, looked on. First came Narrator J. B. Clark, who told the history and purpose of the Carrousel and the meaning of the banners and coats of arms.

Then came Grant Whitney, who as harem of the court was master of ceremonies. He ascended the throne, summoned the heralds, Beefeaters and courtiers and last year's king, William H. Barnhardt.

Dr. Lawrence I. Stell and Dr. Warner Hall, courtiers, then took their places. After a brief invocation the ceremony began.

HERE COMES KING

The arena was almost breathlessly quiet as Mr. Everett swept onto the floor and walked slowly to the throne, ending speculation on who the new king would be.

Mr. Barnhardt crowned the new king, then took his place among former kings George Ivey Sr. and Norman Pease.

Mr. Everett then crowned his queen, Anne Carolyn Cherry of Wadesboro. Queen Anne took her place on the throne as King Herschel busied himself with the dubbing of the dukes, duchesses, and knights, and welcomed the princesses.

Time and again the heralds sounded their horns as the candidates for honors approached the throne. King Herschel gave all "the blow with his mace and Baron Whitney hung medals on them.

ENTERTAINMENT

The ceremony, which began shortly before 10 p.m., was over about 11:30. A brief entertainment program, of which television singer Don Cherry was the star, followed.

Those who became knights were H. D. Albright Sr., Louis D. Brooks, Stafford R. Brookshire, Archie B. Carroll, Alex A. Dickey, Robert D. Eger, John C. Erwin, Dr. James B. Greenwood, Dr. W. L. Halberstadt, C. R. Harris, C. C. Hope Jr., E. L. Horton, Dr. P. C. Hill Jr., Ernest B. Hunter, Dr. John R. Irwin, Dr. Robert M. Link, Harold J. Love, Harvey L. Moore, W. Olin Nesbit Jr., Wiley S. Ovenshain, Dr. George D. Ike, Mamie Dining With Son's Family

WASHINGTON (AP)—President and Mrs. Eisenhower arranged to attend Thanksgiving Day services today, and to have a family turkey dinner at the home of their son and his family.

The chief executive and his wife planned to drive from services at the National Presbyterian church here to the residence of their son and daughter-in-law, Army Maj. and Mrs. John Eisenhower, at Ft. Belvoir, Va., about 12 miles from the capital.

On hand there for the dinner being prepared by the major's wife were the four Eisenhower grandchildren—David S., Barbara Anne T., Susan 4, and Mary Jane, 11 months.

Original plans were for the youngsters and their parents to spend Thanksgiving at the White House, but it was announced late yesterday that the President and Mrs. Eisenhower would be guests instead at the home of the young Eisenhowers.

Troops Are Moving Out Of Suez

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Diplomats cast a wary eye today at reports Britain, France and Israel are withdrawing, or have withdrawn, some of their troops from Egypt.

Israel said there already had been a withdrawal of 100,000 troops for varying distances along the Egyptian front. The Israelis announced they would pull out of Egypt when the U. N. insures Israel against "the threat... of attack, and against acts of belligerency by land or sea."

Britain reportedly informed U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold she was pulling a battalion out of Port Said as a token movement. It was said the British were considering a total withdrawal from Egypt in about four weeks.

France reportedly advised Hammarskjold she has pulled out of the Suez Canal and the Red Sea Gulf of Adaba — which Egypt had stopped in defiance of U. N. directives—and also to protect Israel against Arab attacks across her borders.

The Israeli note was made public through the U. N. press.

Observers said the replies of the three powers might have been speeded up by mounting American pressure and Hammarskjold's insistence that delay in evacuation was hindering the work of the U. N. police force.

ASSURE HER PASSAGE

Israel in effect said she expected the U. N. police force to assure her shipping passage through the Suez Canal and the Red Sea Gulf of Adaba — which Egypt had stopped in defiance of U. N. directives—and also to protect Israel against Arab attacks across her borders.

The Israeli note declared: "We are unwilling to withdraw our forces from Egypt immediately upon the conclusion of satisfactory arrangements with the Egyptian government in connection with the emergency international forces."

The "satisfactory arrangements" which Israel seeks are such as will insure Israel's freedom of passage through the Suez Canal, of attack, and against acts of belligerency by land or sea."

They arrived at nearly McGuire Air Force Base at noon yesterday, then came here for immigration processing and temporary housing.

Eight hours later, 24 of them left for shelter in New York under the care of the United Hebrew Immigrant Aid Society.

Others were planning to leave soon for jobs and homes across America.

Meanwhile, the Army whipped up a fancy Thanksgiving turkey menu for them at this big base reactivated especially to care for Hungarian refugees, with a staff of several hundred.

INVITED TO HOMES

Residents at nearby New Brunswick, which has a large Hungarian-American population, invited some of them home for dinner.

As the Army and relief agencies worked to get this group acclimated, a second plane chartered by the International Committee for European Migration was en route with more Hungarians.

It was due at McGuire at 9 p.m. tonight. Other plane loads were scheduled to arrive before today.

Hungarian Refugees Have Reasons To Be Thankful

By JOHN N. KOLESAR
CAMP KILMER, N. J. (AP)—What price freedom, Thanksgiving Day, 1956?

Sixty Hungarian refugees, first of thousands to come, had an answer when they arrived yesterday: 5,000 miles from their homeland and only a few days out from under Communist domination.

They bought freedom at prices like these: A father and mother, with a teen-age daughter, pushed their 16-year-old son in a wheelchair 25 miles, through the woods and across ditches.

Another pair of parents, their 18-year-old son in danger, gave up their home and fled to safety with him and another child.

To get here, they had to leave a third child, too sick to travel, behind in Vienna.

Others also left behind their homes, relatives, friends.

Their first Thanksgiving in America combined poignancy with joy and hope.

Spagnany, for what they had to forsake.

Joy, for the safety and freedom in their new land.

Hope, for the jobs and material support promised them.

PUSHED WHEELCHAIR

He said his parents and his sister pushed his wheelchair for 25 miles to an Austrian village, getting it somehow through the woods and 200 trenches in a forbidding border area.

His father, a 48-year-old restaurant manager also named Imre, is taking the family to Buffalo, N. Y.

A Baptist minister from Budapest, the Rev. Mr. Imre Gabos, said:

MIXED-UP PLANT

CHICAGO (AP)—A plant in Mrs. Adaline Ambrose's garden in suburban Brookfield appears to have its holidays mixed. Mrs. Ambrose received the plant, a white lily as a gift last Easter. She planted it in the garden and it is now blooming the second time, just in time for Thanksgiving.

Deportees Bring U. N. Into Action

By MARK LEMOND
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union and its puppet Hungarian government showed no sign today of complying with a massive new U. N. appeal for on-the-spot investigation of reported deportations from the rebellious East European satellite.

Voting 57-8, the General Assembly last night approved an Asian resolution asking Hungary to admit U. N. observers to investigate the reports of the deportations which both the Soviet Union and the East European regime denied were taking place.

Both Russia and Hungary had rejected an earlier assembly request for admission of U. N. observers to investigate the general situation in Hungary. The Communists contended the rebellion against them was an internal affair.

The assembly also adopted 55-10 a Cuban resolution urging the Soviet and Hungarian governments to cease deportation of Cuban deportees and return those already deported.

Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri I. Shepilov told the assembly there was no truth whatever in the reports that rebels were being shipped from Hungary to Russia.

The Asian resolution was sponsored by India, Indonesia and Ceylon. Other neutral Asian nations which previously tried to avoid taking a stand on the Hungarian situation lined up to support the resolution.
