Park Board: Explanations Are In Order

EXPLANATIONS are in order from the Park and Recreation Commission...

More than the commission's reputation is being sullied by the commission's inaction...

Beware Of 'Galloping Compassion'

THE double-barreled burst of judicial fire directed yesterday at violators of motor vehicle laws had a fine, vigorous sound...

Both Judge Frank Armstrong of Mecklenburg Superior Court and Judge Basil M. Boyd of City Recorder's Court gave convincing demonstrations of toughness...

But it was Judge Armstrong who touched significantly on what has become the weakest link in the law-enforcement chain...

Most Superior Court judges — with one notable exception in North Carolina — are conscientiously stern...

The trouble is that a great many people — good, honorable citizens — don't feel that assault and battery by an automobile is as serious as assault and battery with fists or a knife...

Nothing is wrong with the law. The wronging officers do their duty. The solicitor prosecutes with bulldog determination...

And then 12 men good and true are infected with a sudden case of galloping compassion and let the law breaker off scot-free...

No real progress can be made toward the enforcement of motor vehicle laws — meaning the promotion of safety on North Carolina highways — as long as a crowd can wink and no offense be known since in the other's guilt each finds his own...

Judges who "get tough" are fine. But let's see some "get-tough" juries.

An Ideal Site For The Health Center

LOCATION of the city's $600,000 health center on Memorial Hospital grounds is desirable from several standpoints...

It is conveniently located. It gets the City-County Health Dept. out of the 4th St. battle to a spot where parking will be possible and growing room will be available...

It will consolidate two important health facilities — the hospital and the health dept. — into a "health center" in the trustiest sense.

Memorial is the one teaching hospital in the city. It has many facilities which may prove handy. Certain clinics operated by both institutions might even be consolidated.

Non-Political

MOSCOW has announced that U.S.S.R. the Russian picture magazine sent to the U.S. newstands will have a "non-political" text...

There was the one about crop failure in the satellites caused by capitalistic "ster bugs" dropped by the U.S. Air Force...

'I'M GOING TO LIVE IN CHARLOTTE...'

THE Southeast is destined to become the world's wealthiest area. Why? Because of climate and water supply...

This is the opinion of Dr. Harold F. Clark, professor of economic education at Columbia University...

He studied all areas of the earth for their economic potential. He told an audience at the University of Alabama that the South's 50 inches of rainfall annually is "enough to sustain a widespread, irrigated commercial agriculture and a highly diversified industry..."

Dr. Clark also observed that with the work week steadily shrinking the time is near when labor will select locations "by leisure hour possibilities and not by working conditions..."

This sounds good — almost too good to be true. Yet it is quite obvious, even to those of us who have not made a special comparative study of area development potentials...

Great areas of wealth and culture have sprung up in the past several hundred years, however, in regions of greater climate extremes and other natural handicaps...
