Nixon Attack On Demos Could Wreck Foreign Policy

By MARQUIS CHILDS

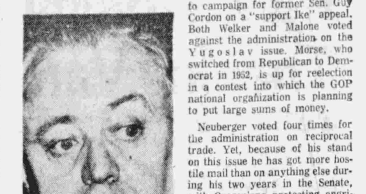

SEN. NEUBERGER Fish Arc A Boomer

IT IS becoming increasingly evident that the election campaign this fall will be a make-or-break test for the foreign policy of the United States and the bipartisan support that during the past decade has sustained a policy of aid and cooperation with the free and the neutral nations of the world.

The Public Schools: Debate Needed

THE state is moving swiftly toward a preliminary decision on weakening the constitutional and statutory foundation of the public school system.

feeling, even within the context of crisis, is not a healthy and worthwhile element. Certainly it is a challenging element, for it demands that those who would change the school laws make a compelling case for doing so.

The Posse: Primitive And Dangerous

THE army of hunters who went dog killing in Cabarrus County yesterday chose a primitive method to rid the countryside of a problem.

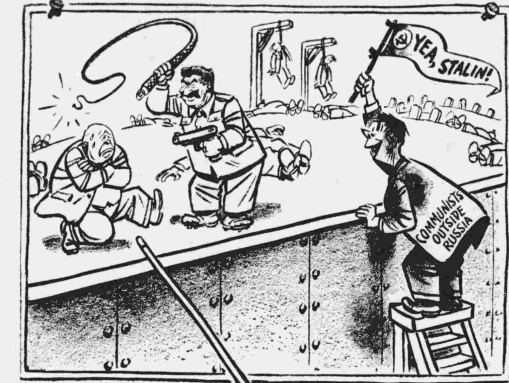

party to be hurt. Trigger-happy volunteers are not always the most dependable people to have around during the excitement of mass operations.

Uncle Sam, The Latter Day Scrooge

THE story is as old as the republic itself. As far back as 1795, Secretary of the Treasury Alexander Hamilton doubted his own financial ability to continue as a public servant.

As a people we must realize that the present executive salary scale imposes a marked disadvantage on the government in its attempt to attract and hold competent men in public service.

Now, Who Did You Say Should Have Spoken Up?
