Nine Die As Cars Collide; Little Girl Lone Survivor

WALL, S. D. (AP)—Nine persons, including three children, were killed last night when two cars crashed head on near here in South Dakota's worst traffic accident of history.

"It was the most violent carnage I've ever witnessed," said Dr. G. W. Mills, Wall physician who was among first to reach the scene, 1 1/2 miles west of here on U. S. 14-18.

Only one little girl survived from a Custer, S. D. family of six, riding in one car. Four young men occupied the second all were killed.

Theron Conner, 33, his 38-year-old wife and three of their daughters — Cheryl, 9, Darrell Lee, 6, and Mary Jean, 4. Their fourth child Rose Marie, about 8, was taken on to a Rapid City hospital and physicians said she was not expected to live.

Auto Race Kills Four On Deserted Boulevard

BALTIMORE (AP)—Two late-model cars, apparently racing along a deserted boulevard early today, sideswiped each other, sending one plowing into a utility pole.

Four people were killed.

Traffic police said there was "evidence they were racing."

Officers said marks on the street showed that one car skidded more than 400 feet, and the other 200 feet before winding itself around the pole. The impact snapped the pole about half-way up.

The dead were identified as:

William Bartels, 19; Edward Binok, 21; Martha Maeller, 17; and Arlene Masch, 19, all of Baltimore. They were in the back seat.

The driver of the car, James E. Zannon, 29, was in Union Memorial Hospital, as was Carol Niedzwick, 18. Both suffered chest injuries.

The driver of the second car was identified as Joseph R. Leonard, 19. He and four other occupants were treated for minor injuries and released.

Police said the drivers would be charged with manslaughter, reckless driving and speeding.

Downed Airplane Gunfire Victim

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—U. S. Navy air officials confirmed today that a Navy jet plane was fired on before it vanished off the Red China coast Thursday.

Officials at the U. S. Navy Air Station at Iwakuni, Japan, said up near the spot where the plane went down had wounds inflicted by gunfire.

The Navy said examination of the body of Technician 1C, Albert P. Mattin of Delta, Ohio, showed metal fragments from bullets. The wounds did not cause death, however. Mattin died of multiple injuries suffered in the crash.

SEARCH CONTINUES

The U. S. 7th Fleet was given orders to continue the search in full force for possible survivors among the other 7th Fleet last night missing plane.

Vice Adm. Stuart Ingersoll, the fleet commander, had announced termination of the search today. But the Washington office of Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations, said instructions were radioed the 7th Fleet last night to continue the search.

situation since Ingersoll's announcement. Apparently the orders were delayed in transmission. Kidnaping Details Sought From Ride

MINDOLA, N. Y. (AP)—Angelo John LaMarca was taken from his police headquarters cell at 4 a. m. today for another mysterious automobile trip as authorities worked to pin down all details in the kidnaping and death of little Peter Weinberger.

Police kept silent on their activities.

Reporters learned of the early morning car trip at mid-morning but could gain no information as to how long it lasted, where LaMarca was taken or even whether he had been returned to his cell.

A similar tour was made late yesterday amid police efforts to ascertain whether the mustachioed, swarthy kidnaper had the help of anyone else before abandoning the child to die in a roadside thicket of honeysuckle vines.

Authorities said LaMarca, a 31-year-old taxi and truck driver, told them he had taken the Weinberger baby to Brooklyn and left him overnight with a friend a few hours after the July 4 kidnaping.

WOLLDNH MOVE

An officer said yesterday that LaMarca refused to name this person and that other efforts to identify the individual had not been successful.

Police reported that LaMarca had slept and eaten well since yesterday. They said his lawyers would be permitted to see him but not his wife or family members.

The only word from Inspector Steven E. Pineda, chief of the Nassau County detective force working on the case, was that "LaMarca is in police custody for interviews and investigation, and we won't talk about it."

Meanwhile, a policeman was locked in with the dejected prisoner to guard against any suicide attempts.

"Someone else is involved but I can't call it up," he father Dean, for military service.

Gayle, a 25-year-old Jamaican, turned up at the Blandford training camp with Grace tightly gripping his hand.

"My wife died last October and there is no one to look after her," Gayle explained.

While the soldiers at Blandford made a fuss over Grace the telephone lines buzzed between the camp and the War Office.

"I'm less than 24 hours in the army. Gayle got this word: indefinite leave pending discharge."

Said Grace: "I like playing soldiers."

Police Say Pair Admits $480 Theft

By JIM SCOTTON
Charlotte News Staff Writer

A Rock Hill white woman and a Fort Mill Negro man have been charged with the armed robbery of a Pineville R. grocery and service station August 17.

Charged with armed robbery by Mecklenburg County Police are Mrs. Dora Jane Yazel, 25, of 1022 Cherokee Ave., in Rock Hill and Tommy Miller, 23, of Rt. 2 Fort Mill.

Police said both have admitted holding up Wriston T. Yandle at his grocery-service station and taking $480 at gun point.

ARRESTED THURSDAY

Fort Mill Chief of Police Hayward F. Adams arrested Miller Thursday about noon. Chief Adams had been tipped off that Miller was seen getting into a car which fit the description of the robbery car and had driven away with a white woman.

Mrs. Yazel was arrested at 11 p. m. yesterday by Mecklenburg officers and local police at a trailer at Pinetrest, where she was visiting her two brothers.

L. Lawrence A. Kelly, who headed the investigation, said the search for the robbers led them all over North and South Carolina. Leads were checked as far away as Augusta, Ga.

L. Kelly said Miller admitted he had been picked up by a white woman on a street behind Fort Mill City Hall. He said he had gone there to get paid for work he had done with a construction crew.

However, he told police the woman had taken him to do some yard work and he had no part in the Yandle robbery. Police went with Miller to several places where Miller said he believed he did the yard work, but every time Miller said it was the wrong place.

4-Year-Old Liked Short Army Stay

LONDON (AP)—The army never counted on 4-year-old Grace Gayle when it called up her father, Dean, for military service.

Gayle, a 25-year-old Jamaican, turned up at the Blandford training camp with Grace tightly gripping his hand.

"My wife died last October and there is no one to look after her," Gayle explained.

Nasser To Offer Canal Guarantees

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—President Gamal Abdel Nasser will offer nations using the Suez Canal treaty guarantees of unimpeded shipping, diplomatic sources reported today.

They said he will offer the guarantees, singly or collectively, as a counterproposal to the demand of 18 nations for internationalization of the waterway.

There was still no official information when the five-nation Suez Canal committee formed in London will come here or even that it will come. Geneva and Rome have been mentioned as other possible meeting places.

ONLY CAIRO

But it was regarded here as unlikely Nasser would meet the group any place except Cairo and impossible elsewhere.

Egyptian sources insisted Nasser could not and would not compromise on Egypt's sovereignty and right to take control of the Suez. But individual or collective guarantees to shipping nations are another matter, they said.

Sucker Day Celebrated In Oklahoma

WETUMKA, Okla. (AP)—This is the day this east central Oklahoma town's 2,000 citizens have fun celebrating the time they were taken in as "suckers" by a fast-talking stranger who never came back.

The seventh annual "Sucker Day" has been extended for two days this year to accommodate the large crowd of visitors who have come to join in the huge parade, featuring floats from Oklahoma City, McAlester and other state cities. A water ski contest, boat races and other entertainment are atop to give Wetumka its annual festive air. Each year the town's population swells to about 5,000 for the celebration.

But, the folks of Wetumka weren't in a happy mood when their parade on Monday called himself F. Bam Morrison left town in July 1950. He spent only three days here but he won't soon be forgotten. He took off with a goodly bundle of cash.

Claiming to be an advance agent for nonexistent circus, Morrison sold glibly merchandise on the idea of getting rich quick. He solicited paid-in-advance advertising, sold concessions and persuaded the usually cautious businessmen to lay in extra stocks of refreshments — including hay for elephants.

The town figured it learned a good lesson from Morrison. When their fury at being suckers subsided, the folks decided to have a party with the useless supplies and called it "Sucker Day." It's been growing every year.

Lumberton Man Killed By Cop

LUMBERTON (AP)—Stephen B. Baxley, 40, of Parkton, died at a Lumberton hospital yesterday after being shot by a St. Pauls policeman.

St. Pauls Police Chief J. J. Kinlaw said Baxley was shot Thursday night by officer J. A. Armstrong after the Parkton man threatened the officer with a shotgun.

Kinlaw said Baxley once as assaulted Armstrong when the officer was a member of the police force at Parkton, and had threatened to "get" Armstrong just before the Thursday night shooting.

The St. Pauls police chief said Baxley, crouched behind an automobile, aimed a shotgun at Armstrong as he and other officers approached him. Armstrong fired, striking Baxley in the chest.

Baxley died several hours later.

Stevenson Says Nixon Choice Of GOP Bosses

By ERNEST B. VACCARO
LIBERTYVILLE, Ill. (AP)—Adlai Stevenson today called Nixon President and said the choice of the "Republican bosses" as he welcomed Estes Kefauver to Libertyville to chart the Democratic election campaign.

Standing with his own vice presidential running mate in the gravel driveway in front of his farm home here, the Democratic presidential nominee told reporters:

"I don't know whether President Eisenhower wanted Nixon or not—there have been a lot of guesses on that—but certainly the Republican bosses wanted him on the ticket, and so he was put on."

JUST OPPOSITE

In Sen. Kefauver's case, Stevenson said, "It was just the opposite," and he was selected at a "fair and open convention."

Stevenson met with Kefauver for a series of conferences about their cross-country trip next week.

He said it will be a "truly grass roots campaign" and that the two nominees said they will go out to appeal for the votes of all the people.

"WE WANT JOE"

"We will not throw any Joe Smiths out of the party," Stevenson said with reference to a GOP Nebraska delegate's failure to nominate a symbolic Joe Smith for vice president.

Kefauver said the Republicans demonstrated "there is no place for Joe Smith in the Republican ranks," and "Welcome Joe Smith."

Kefauver flew from Washington to Chicago with F. Joseph Donohue, his own campaign manager, but left him to fly to Libertyville in a small plane.

Greeting reporters, Stevenson said he and Kefauver will "continue to campaign as we are starting it—together."

Author Dr. Kinsey Dies In Hospital

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey, 62-year-old biologist who won fame for his book on human sexual behavior, died here this morning after a brief illness. He had been in a coma from a heart ailment and pneumonia.

Ailing for the last six months, he had been in and out of hospitals in Indianapolis and Bloomington, and his research work had been sharply curtailed.

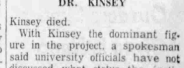

Kinsey was virtually unknown outside restricted zoological circles until his book "Sexual Behavior in the Human Male" became a surprise best seller in 1948. It was followed by a book on female sex behavior in 1953. Kinsey entered the Bloomington hospital Wednesday, but the seriousness of his condition was not disclosed until Friday afternoon.

His wife, Clara Brandon Kinsey, who had been one of his early zoology students, was with him when he died.

In scientific circles, Kinsey was known as the world's top authority on gals was when he turned to research in 1938, out of interest in a marriage course he had been teaching.

He paid a graduate student $90 a year out of his own pocket to help in the research at first, before the National Research Council thought enough of his project to give him a $1,600 grant in 1941. His institute had an operating budget of $100,000 a year before the book on female sex was published.

Since then, Kinsey continued travels and had outlined books on sex of men in prison, Europeans and of animals. However, the institute said no new work was close to completion when he died.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Four persons were killed and a fifth was critically injured early today in a flash fire that broke out in a three-story house.

A woman died after leaping from a third floor window. A boy, 3, was critically hurt in making the same jump.

One fireman was burned fighting the blaze.

The dead were tentatively identified as Ralph Bailey, 43; Leola Smith, 35; Stanley Smith, 6, and Elmer Hughes, 44. Hughes apparently was visiting at the house.

In critical condition at Provident Hospital was Gregory Smith Peterson, 8.

HOUSTON, Tex.—A mother, her four young daughters and a Bible salesman died screaming in a two-story apartment house fire here early today.

Two other persons narrowly escaped death.

The dead were Mrs. Dorothy Mae Oliver, 31, a waitress; Elizabeth Carol Oliver, nine months; Patricia Ann Oliver, 3; Frances J. Oliver and Christine V. Oliver, 12, daughters by a previous marriage, and William O. Bowers, 42.

Mrs. Oliver and her children were trapped upstairs. Bowers was found dead of suffocation in his first floor room, sprawled across his bed.

The two who escaped were Miss Jenette Nevins, 16, and Bruno Mileksi, 19, an upstairs roomer.

Firemen found Miss Nevins and Mileksi standing on a five-inch ledge, outlined by flames, when they arrived.

The whole house was a ball of fire," said Fire Chief Joe Lobue.

Firemen brought the two down with ladders, and learned that the mother of four children, were trapped upstairs and made a desperate rescue attempt.

Chief Lobue said the fire apparently started from undetermined causes in a small kitchen on the first floor.

Jersey City, N. J. (AP)—A fast-moving fire swept through four tenement houses during the night and took the lives of two women and two little boys.

Over 120 persons, including some 34 children, were made homeless as the flames destroyed two adjoining three-story frame dwellings and gutted two more.

Origin of the fire was not determined.

The bodies of the two trapped women were found by firemen on the floors of the second story. The collapse of the roof and the accumulation of debris delayed the finding of the two little boys.
