MRS. LEDWELL

You will have to be tough about your day and insist that you get the money you feel like doing all day long. You may want to stay in bed and rest. You may want to stay in bed and rest.

'Give' Yourself A Day Every Once In A While

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Few women ever think of giving themselves a day of their own once a week or even twice a month. This would seem impossible to the average woman but actually it is not. Once you get the idea over to your family they will cooperate with you.

The fatiguing factor for a woman is the fact that she has to fit so many pieces into the pattern of her daily life—her husband's interests, her children's interests, and often those of her parents and sisters and brothers and friends. In other words she is meeting deadlines all day long every day. Even though they are pleasant they still are deadlines. She seldom can follow her own inclination of the moment.

You will have to be tough about your day and insist that you do only what you feel like doing all day long. You may wish to stay in bed and rest, or you may want to go on a picnic in the country and simply sit and soak up the sunshine, or play bridge or just sit on your front porch. Whatever it is, do it.

Beauty After 40 Splurge With Hats, Hats And Hats

By EDITH THORNTON McLEOD

Beatrice Martin presents a collection of hats which are portraits in color.

These are Edwardian, feminine, flattering and fashionable. Get ready to splurge. You must have one of the new hats—large hats and large hats of fur, and there are berets—but what berets!

There is one group of elegant velvet hats, and for another group Beatrice Martin was inspired by memories of Clara Bow as the "IT" girl and does an "IT" bow with a modern accent.

Some of the Victorian colors stressed are Victorian Wine, Amaranthus, Taupe, American Gold and Clay Beige.

RICH VELVET
Victorian Wine, in rich velvet, is especially beautiful and flattering to the after-forty women. There is another color, Directoire Green, which you can wear if your skin is fair and you have dazzling white teeth.

"My Fair Lady" the show everybody talks about but only a few can see, has inspired the rich collection of famed Triana Masterpiece jewelry, and masterpieces of elegance and fashion awareness are just what they are.

A new stone has appeared called Northern Lights, and the iridescent fire of these rhinestones is wonderfully flattering. Dramatic hats of flashing beauty can "make" a costume. This you know, is the season of elegance.

The high-necked dinner dresses are the perfect background for a Masterpiece. A very new idea is to wear a matching pin at the base of your low-backed evening gown.

Fins are worn on lapels but are turning up in odd places from horns to necklines to emphasize the beauty of the jewelry.

Teen-Age Mail

Popularity Short-Lived For Young Elvis Presley

By DOROTHY RICKER

Dear Mrs. Ricker: My Dad and I are having constant arguments about Elvis Presley. I think he is a dream, but you don't think so. He is terrible. What do you think of him? Do you think he is a bad influence on teen-agers like myself? BILIE.

Dear Millie: Because I have received so many letters from teen-age girls, asking my opinion of Elvis Presley, I am going to write frankly and at the risk of irritating some of my youthful readers.

In my opinion, there is nothing about him worthy of the title, "entertainer." He cannot sing and his whole performance is crude and disgusting. I can understand most teen-age fads and make allowances for them. But even when he was billed as the "new" Elvis Presley I found it difficult to understand why he has become the ward symbol of mass romantic dreams among teen-agers. His face is devoid of expression except when he smirks.

My guess because I admire and have faith in our younger generation is that in a comparatively short time he will be forgotten—and his popularity will be short-lived.

Dear Mrs. Ricker: Our problem is hard to believe but it is only too real, as we have found out. We are two 17-year-old girls who graduated from high school in June. At the senior prom, as a joke, we went over the state line with our dates and were married at a justice of peace.

No one knows about this and we don't know how to tell our parents. We had been going with these boys occasionally but there was nothing serious between us—the boys thought—but we really love them. Now, they think our marriages can be annulled any time and they have been dating other girls! Please help us. What can we do? S.B.E.

Amy Vanderbilt's Etiquette

Switzerland Beautiful And Exceptionally Clean

Most Americans like Switzerland because it is not only beautiful but clean and businesslike.

— Americans like this very much. It is a very clean and businesslike country. It is a very clean and businesslike country. It is a very clean and businesslike country.

Swiss women are easy to figure—roughly four francs to the dollar (actually 23 cents per franc). There is, therefore, little excuse for Americans to overtip on the ground that they don't understand the currency anyhow.

A Swiss executive, proud of his country's well-known economic stability, says that Swiss nationals hate to see tourists overtip.

He pointed out that an American businessman he knew picked up dinner check in his presence for 38 francs (about $9) and left a 50-franc tip, considering the change a tip. A normal tip, according to Swiss ideas, would have been approximately a dollar or four francs, instead of the $3 on taxid approximately 12 francs the man left.

In Switzerland, there are some excellent tearooms (Spratzen) run by the Swiss Women's Association, and in these tipping is not permitted and there is no service charge.

Swiss washroom attendants expect no tips unless they do the service included. In other words, you don't tip hotel maids or porters. The exception is a hotel porter stationed at a terminal to conduct you to the hotel. He receives a franc or two, depending on the amount of your luggage. You do not tip the concierge.
