

Babe Lises To Cancer

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—Babe Didrikson Zaharias, the greatest woman athlete the world has known, died today after a stubborn battle with the one competitor she couldn't beat—cancer.

Into her 42 years, she packed athletic triumphs that began with AAU basketball tournaments, included AAU track, then the Olympics and finally the golf courses of the nation.

Tito, Russian Boss Leave For Soviet Visit

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—President Tito left today with Soviet Communist Party boss Nikita Khrushchev for a surprise visit to the Soviet Union.

Tito was accompanied by his wife Jovanka, vice president Aleksander Rankovic and Djuro Pucar, chairman of the state of Bosnia-Herzegovina and a member of the Yugoslav Communist Party Politburo.

Like Khrushchev's equally unexpected trip to Yugoslavia, Tito's latest visit to Russia on a special trip was described as a vacation. The official Yugoslav news agency Tanjug said the party left the military airport of Batajnica on a special Soviet plane this morning and will spend several days resting on the Black Sea coast.

Khrushchev arrived in Belgrade Sept. 19 and got a private official welcome from which all outsiders were barred. Officials insisted his visit was only a holiday but most observers believed he came to strengthen further the renewed ties the Soviets have been forging with Tito.

The current Kremlin leaders have made extended efforts to strengthen the ties between Yugoslavia and Russia. Khrushchev and Soviet Premier Bulganin came to Belgrade in June, 1955, to make peace with Tito for Stalin's having thrown him out of the Soviet-led Cominform.

Last June Tito made a triumphal tour of the Soviet Union. V. M. Molotov, who had been the lead role in the Soviet campaign against the Yugoslav leader between 1948 and 1953, was relieved of his post as Foreign Minister on the eve of Tito's June visit.

From Sept. 23, she appeared to lose ground rapidly. Doctors said this was because her veins were worn out and they no longer were able to feed her through them. She was sustained only by food she could be given by mouth, and that was very little.

Almost to the last, the Babe put up a courageous show. But friends were sick at heart to see the decline of the once-great athlete.

Mrs. Zaharias made an estimated million dollars in professional sports.

Six times, sports editors named her "Woman Athlete of the Year" in the annual Associated Press poll. On the 1950 ballot, sports writers named her the woman athlete of the half century.

Dr. Judge Joe Sheehy presided at today's hearing. The suit was filed for the NAACP by U. Simpson Tate, Dallas Negro, regional attorney for the organization.

Tate is asking Judge Sheehy to allow the NAACP to file contempt of court charges against Dr. H. W. Stitwell, president of Parkland, (Tex.) Junior College, and Bill Williams, a college trustee.

A pro-segregation statement by Dr. Stitwell was cited by the organization for a contempt of court complaint.

Stitwell admits saying the South should resist integration but he says the resistance should be by legal means. He has denied that he was in contempt of "any court."

The NAACP claims Williams was in the white crowd that prevented two Negro students, Jessilyn Gray, 18, and Steve Paster, 17, from entering the college Sept. 10.

MRS. ZAHARIAS

Ike Plans Speedup In Addresses

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he is going to make two or three more major campaign speeches than he had counted on.

Eisenhower told a news conference, however, he is not going to do any barnstorming, and not go out whole-stop.

He didn't say where or where the extra speeches, beyond the five or six he originally contemplated, would be made.

For months, the whole world knew that death soon would reach the superb athlete. At times, her husband, George Zaharias, could hardly talk to movement as emotion gripped him.

At one time, when her life was fading, a spark of competitive spirit flamed again, and from her hospital bed she shook her fist and declared, "I'll beat this thing yet."

It was not until Sept. 23—a Sunday—that the hospital finally admitted the end was inevitable and gave vital functions have been maintained surprisingly well, that situation cannot continue much longer in view of the widespread dissemination of the malignant growth.

Her final weeks were relatively free of pain, although she was plagued by the usual ailments of semi-severe disease was made possible because surgeons cut a nerve.

Under questioning, the President also had some sharp comments to campaign statements by his Democratic rival, Adlai E. Stevenson.

Hisposts of the conference: LEADERSHIP—Eisenhower said that he would rather let appearances over the years speak out on the question of his leadership. He said one of the things he treasures is a few paragraphs on that subject by former British Prime Minister Winston Churchill, who, he said, knew him better than some of his critics. Eisenhower was speaking in response to an inquiry about a statement by Stevenson in Kansas City last night which said Eisenhower had shown "consistent rejection of the positive responsibilities of leadership."

MILTON—Eisenhower was even more emphatic in commenting on Stevenson's contention that the administration, through the President's brother Milton, appeared the Peron regime in Argentina. His brother Milton, Eisenhower said, helped news agencies regain facilities and operations in Argentina. And he said his brother never had acted except on the request of the State Department and through it.

Eisenhower said he had asked the department for a report on his brother's operations and would put it out without comment when it becomes available.

ACHESON—The President said that if the campaign is going to be settled on the basis of misleading wisecracks, then he thinks the best on the outcome would be far different.

That was his response to a request for comment on a speech last night in which former Secretary of State Dean Acheson said the present administration has served to be playing Russian roulette with an atomic pistol.

Eternal God, as we strive to find the righteous way of life, guide us this day to see the work of the Christ for all mankind, and to follow in His way. In His name, Amen.

Evening Prayer

—What's Inside—

This May Be The Reason Why Johnny Can't Read

WHY MARY WON'T TEACH. A seasoned Tar Heel public school teacher tells why she says the reason is that she is starting frank letter to today's editorial page, 10A.

GAMBLING IN THE U.S. is a $30 million business, and the Queen City has a finger in the pie. Break the crust with Bob Quincy on Page 2B.

Business 13A, 15A
Classified 11-12B
Comics 12C
Crossword Puzzle 7A
Editorials 10A
Features 6B

Obituaries 12A
Radio-TV 12A
Sports 14B
Theaters 10-11B
Women 7-9B

Japan Promises Cotton Goods Export Limits

Flossy Drifting North, Dropping Heavy Downpour

WASHINGTON (AP)—Tropical storm Flossy continued to move slowly northeastward today, bearing strong winds and heavy rains.

The Weather Bureau said that at 6 a. m. (EDT) the storm was centered over most of east central North Carolina.

The bureau said it expected Flossy to move in a northeasterly direction at less than five miles an hour for the next 12 to 24 hours.

Heavy rains were reported in North Carolina and most of Virginia, and the bureau said they are expected to spread into southern New Jersey during the morning.

The bureau said winds along the coast were clocked at between 25 and 40 miles an hour, with gusts up to 50 miles an hour as far north as southern New Jersey, and up to 60 miles an hour as far north as southern Delaware.

Some southern New England coastal areas may expect winds up to 40 or 50 miles an hour by this afternoon, the bureau said in its advisory.

Tides will be from three to five feet above normal from Virginia to southern New Jersey, the bureau said, and from two to four feet above normal from that point northward to Provincetown, Mass. at the tip of Cape Cod.

The bureau said tides will reach one to three feet above normal this afternoon and tonight from the New York area northward to New Hampshire.

Most flooding will occur near low tide times. Storm warnings were lowered in the Cape Hatteras, N. C. area. They remained displayed from the Virginia coast northward to Provincetown, including Long Island Sound, Chesapeake Bay and Delaware Bay.

The storm, which hit with hurricane force along the Gulf Coast and lost strength as it moved inland, has caused 16 deaths and millions of dollars in property damage.

Britain Won't Drop Charges Against Nina

LONDON (AP)—Britain disclosed today it has turned down a Russian request to drop a charge of shoplifting against circus dancer Nina Pomonova.

The Russians have indicated they would cancel the suit-out if the British government could not intervene in a matter "in the hands of the law."

The Foreign Office announced Minister State Anthony Nutting (formerly advised Soviet Charge d'Affaires N.A. Roschin the due process of British justice must be observed. Nutting said the British government could not intervene in a matter "in the hands of the law."

The 27-year-old female athlete was arrested and charged with stealing five hats worth less than $5 on Aug. 29, while in London with a Russian team to compete in a British-Soviet track meet.

The woman is believed in hiding in the Soviet Embassy in London, which has diplomatic immunity from search.

250-Pound Angry Giant Punches 110-Pound 'Opponent' To Death

HOMESTEAD, Fla.—Officers charged a 250-pound Miami auto salesman beat his ex-wife's 110-pound employer to death today after breaking down the door of her home and cornering the smaller man in the kitchen.

A first degree murder warrant was issued by George Secretary of State Dean Acheson said the present administration has served to be playing Russian roulette with an atomic pistol.

Peace Justice Sylvester Adair described Brennan as "an insanely jealous man" who continually harassed his former wife in spite of the fact that he had remarried after their divorce five years ago.

"It was just like beating a baby to death with your bare fists," Adair said. "This giant child in a few days, that he was in trouble. Then he left on foot."

Brennan has been in Adair's court several times on charges of molesting his former wife.

MADE THREATS "He would threaten anyone she talked to, men and women alike," the peace justice said, "and would do outside her home at night listening to conversation going on inside."

Collabella, a resident of Hollywood, Fla., had been living in Homestead while he built a housing development. His wife, a helpless polio victim, collapsed when she heard of her husband's death.

Collabella came to Florida from Virginia six years ago and went into business in Hollywood.

YO-YO's a mouthful and that's what Larry Johnson, 7, of Yale, Okla., seems to be saying as he looks at the yo-yo he swallowed. Doctors removed it. (AP)

Stevenson Disliked Midwest Anti-GOP Uprising Blunted

By SAMUEL LUBELL

Strong as is the uprising against the Republicans in rural Midwest, much of its force is being blunted by two feelings—a wide-spread dislike for Adlai Stevenson and a deep sense of gratitude to President Eisenhower for ending the Korean War.

In every farm county I have gone into former Democratic voters explained their sticking with Eisenhower with "We ain't aightin'," or "We're out of war. That's enough for me."

Other farmers have begun by complaining, "Things sure have been rough for the farmers and we're making a dollar. They're just for bare life."

Many farm families talk as if they actually feel that they are choosing between "another war" and "hard times" that they must take one or the other.

Grumbled one Wisconsin farmer: "The small farmer has no chance under the Republicans but if the Democrats get in I know what they'll do. They'll get us into war."

An Ohio farmer felt, "We're heading back into the 1930's of the '30s with Eisenhower. I don't want war."

As one listens to these people one conjures up the mental image of a giant scale on which they are weighing their conflicting emotions. Where economic grievances are heavy enough, they outweigh the "peace" issue and the shift is to the Democrats. But where crops are good and prices fair, the gratitude to Eisenhower is the dominant factor.

See MIDWEST on page 11-A

Japan's Offer Is 'Welcome'

COLUMBIA (AP)—Japan's offer today to continue to voluntarily limit its cotton textile exports to the United States is "very welcome," Executive Vice President John E. Cauthen of the South Carolina Textile Manufacturers Assn. said.

"I am glad to see that limitations will be detailed," he said. "The Japanese proposal, announced by the State Department, said the voluntary limits began last January would be continued on a year to year basis, but asked that restrictive state legislation be dropped."

South Carolina this year enacted a law requiring labeling of Japanese textile and apparel articles with a sign "Japanese textiles sold here."

"There has been no enforcement, and no demand from the industry for enforcement of the law," Cauthen said. "We don't think it was wise or effective."

26 DAYS TO GO Register So You Can VOTE

Registration Deadline is Oct. 23 for new voters. Deadline for transferring registration is Oct. 16.

Our Weather

Cloudy and cool today and tonight with occasional light rain. Florida's considerable cloudiness and little warmer.

Low this morning 50
Low tomorrow morning 54
High today 54
High yesterday 54
High tomorrow 55
Sunrise today, 6:14 a.m.; sunset today, 6:13 p.m.

See MIDWEST on page 11-A

More Weather Data on Page 11-A

Select FURMEST Milk Products at your favorite store.—Advt.