Research: Industry's Good Right Arm

JUVIL JOLLIES over what Gov. Hodges gets out of LRF rather obvious... Along with Robert M. Hanes and Brandon F. Hodges, the governor incorporated an all of his small industries plan...

If it can also tell industry, through research, new ways to use its resources it will have taken a quick step toward more industry, jobs and incomes... The state's research laboratories already are busy studying possible new uses of the state's natural resources.

Politicians: Pay Attention, If Not Parity

AS A BOY in rural Texas Sam Rayburn used to sit on a fence and, out of a searing loneliness, "wish to God a buggy would come by..." Mr. Sam came by many Tar Heel communities today on his way from Charlotte to Albemarle where he speaks tonight...

They remember Gov. Hodges' recent comment that "the small farm or family-size farm, as we know it in North Carolina, faces a very dark future..." A politician's visit is a passing thing, of course. A visit from Ike and Adlai would not better a bit the economic lot of the Tar Heel farmers...

Dogs Are No Good On Stormy Nights

THERE are many different ways to treat a dog. You can treat him to a hunk of cold hockeack tossed out the kitchen door with a hollered HERE. Or you can wheedle him off the couch to his nice pink bowl and fingerfeed him vitamin-spiced fish, beef or chicken-flavored food...

Authority

WE NOTE that Harold E. Stassen has resumed his duties as President Eisenhower's special adviser on disarmament facts prevent the payment of a fuller party. Quit pestering the midwesterners, gentlemen. They must have some chores to do. Come South and sympathize a while with us.

THE STRANGE, FRIGHTENED DALMATIAN

WE TOLD you some days ago about the efforts to pick up for the dog pound the strange, frightened, highly intelligent Dalmatian dog. You remember that a policeman once wounded him as he shot in an effort to kill him...

flash if there was any motion to come close to him. The sat on his haunches in such a manner as to favor the wound he bore. His position appeared to have been selected with great care. He was in such a site that he could not be hemmed or fenced in. He could leap for liberty and freedom in any direction if it became necessary.

Iowa's Embittered Farmers Flock To Adlai Stevenson

By STEWART ALSOP
KEOKUK COUNTY, Iowa
ALTHOUGH President Eisenhower is liked in these parts as elsewhere, candidate Eisenhower is in deep, deep trouble in the typical midwestern farm community which surrounds the tiny town of What Cheer...

Stevenson which we found most reflect some isolated pocket of Democratic sentiment. So we kept moving to some other part of the county. But almost everywhere the pattern was the same. ADLAI-TO-IKE

In a single county in a national poll - Stevenson may actually better Eisenhower's 1952 landslide among Keokuk County farmers. Statistically, these results may not seem impressive. Yet the way the farmers talked was decidedly impressive, in a number of ways. BIG CHANGE more besides. Many farmers were bitter in August, but, again for mysterious reasons, they are much more bitter now. Bedeviled by drought and low hog prices, the farmers feel let down by the Eisenhower administration. We found no one - but perhaps a furious old lady on the front stoop of an unpainted shack - who dislikes the President personally. But hate is not too strong a word to express the feeling of a good many for Agriculture Secretary Benson. DEEP BITTERNESS

People's Platform

Charlotte
YOUR editorial about continual delay interested me. The article on the proper location of the Health Center by Mr. Kuzal, was very detailed and true (I'll admit there has been delay) but it brings up a point...

City's Progress Takes Time

Your City Council is the nerve center of the City of Charlotte. We are trying to keep abreast of the times - always recognizing certain "trends" in municipal improvement and efficiency of operations, whether it's health, traffic, population growth, entertainment or whatever our citizens want and approve.

Drew Pearson's Merry-Go-Round

BOSTON
You ask New England political observers whether Eisenhower will carry Massachusetts, most will tell you that it depends on the brilliant young senator from that state who came within a hairs-breadth of winning the Democratic vice presidential nomination at Chicago. Senator Overrated?

Jack Kennedy's Magic To Be Tested

for Adlai Stevenson. If he takes off the gloves, this should mean that Massachusetts, which went for Ike in 1952, will not go for him in November. Pop Is a Conservative Though there was never any question about Kennedy's devotion to Adlai Stevenson, there has been some question as to how far Kennedy would go in opposing Eisenhower. The young senator's father, like a good many of the wealthier Bostonians, should not want to see the stanchest GOP Boston blueblood, Joseph Patrick Kennedy, who made several millions by getting the first Scotch whisky concession in the country after prohibition ended, was a strong Roosevelt backer, got big rewards from Roosevelt, then all but walked out on Roosevelt after FDB appointed him ambassador to the Court of St. James. At London, Joe got pally with the Cliveden set of Hitler appeasers and became so

Solution To Suez Squabble Lies In Skillful Compromise

NEW YORK
THE Suez affair is being brought to the United Nations amidst predictions that nothing useful can be expected to come from the move. Must we take this defeatism for granted? That depends. I venture to think, on what is behind the move. Have Great Britain and France turned to the U.N. because they have run out of ideas, and cannot think of what else to do? Or will they, with the United States in the role of mediator on behalf of their interests, try to force a solution which fits the realities of the United Nations? KEY FOR GLOOM
If the pessimistic predictions arise from the assumption that Great Britain and France will ask the Security Council to approve the terms of a settlement of the proposals which were agreed to by the 22 nations voting at the first London conference. These are the proposals for international "operation" of the canal.

The White House ordered the Army to get out of the coffee business and give up its roasting plants this summer. The price premium was up from an average of 75 cents to 84 cents a pound. The taxpayers pay the difference to the big coffee companies.
