

THE CHARLOTTE NEWS

*Thomas L. Robinson	President and Publishe
Brodie S. Griffith	General Manage
Robert H. Lampee	Advertising Directo
Cecil Prince	Edito
Perry Morgan	Associate Edito
R. L. Young Jr.	Managing Edito
Huey Stinson	Circulation Manage

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 21, 1957

Words Are Elastic But Facts Remain

"The question is." said Alice, "whether you can make words mean so many different things."

"The question is." said Humpty Dumpty, "which is to master—that's all."

THE Chamber of Commerce of the page from Humpty Dumpty's notebook yesterday when it blithely maintained that there is no "critical national shortage" of classrooms in the United States.

age" of classrooms in the United Sates. What are the facts?

Actually, there are enrolled in the nation's nublic schools approximately 21/4 million children in excess of the normal capacity of children.

These children are compelled to prepare for the future under the handicap of half-day sessions, makeshif facilities or grossly overcrowded conditions. In North Carolina alone, 7,200 children are going to school in double shifts and another 3,700 are housed in tem-porary quarters not owned by local boards of education and located from the campus, This rather sad pic-ture is duplicated, state by state, across the nation.

the nation.

The number of pupils in U. S. public schools has increased by 51/2 million.

The U. S. Office of Education estimates that this number will further increase by about six million in the next five years.

A Gratifying Display Of Legislative Teeth

New Chapter In A Distinguished History

JOHN Rood Cunningham has been a J distinguished president of Davidson College. His resignation, effective Sept. 1, will deprive the 120-year-old institution of the services of one of list truly outstanding leaders. But Dr. Cunningham's new assignment as executive director of the Presbyterian Foundation offers a fresh and challenging opportunity for service.

Links with an academic past will not be severed. The advancement of education will continue to be an important part of his new duties, along with the advancement of Presbyterianism. This fact is particularly comforting to those of us who have recognized and admired his important work in the difficult and demanding field of educational states—the North Carolina Council of Churches and a delegate to the World Council of Churches. He has served as president of the North Carolina Council of Churches and a delegate to the World Council of Churches. He has served as president of the North Carolina Council of Churches and a delegate to the World Council of Churches. He has served as president of the North Carolina Council of Churches and a delegate to the World Council of Churches. He has served as president of the North Carolina Council of Churches and a delegate to the World Council of Churches. He has served as president of the North Carolina Council of Churches and a delegate to the World Council of Churches. He has served as president of the Account of Churches and a delegate to the World Council of Churches. He has served as president of the Account of Churches and a delegate to the World Council of Churches. He has a served as president of the Account of Churches and a delegate to the World Council of Churches. He has a served as president of the Account of Churches and the Account

Stassen's Politic Silence On Politics

WINTER REVERIE

1955.

And, more's the blessing, he brought his earthy eloquence with him yesterday when he came over to the side of a little constabulary stealth in catching speed-

In 1955, when Moore fought through in 1955, when Moore fought through bill prohibiting Highway Patrol use of unmarked cars. "there were only a few ecenagers racing, Now there are a bunch of grown-up damn fools in souped up raras in planned races. I'm convinced (the batrol) should have some unmarked patrol) should have some cars."

We're convinced, too, and have been much longer than has Sen. Moore. But a hundred editorials on traffic safety don't nearly match the impact of one blast of reformed conviction from a Cut-lar Moore.

nly through some freakish change ip a very

COME moratoriums a man can declare.
Others are declared against htm.
That's how it is with Harold Stassen.
The one-time boy wonder of Minnesota politics came to town urging Americans to have confidence in a President elected three months ago by the greatest popular majority in American history. Beyond that wholesome exhortation, Mr. Stassen had nary a word to say about politics.

His "moratorium" on matters politi-cal was startling, but rather comfortable. We have never fully recovered — and probably Mr. Stassen hasn't either—from his improbable attempt to deny a vice presidential renomination to the boy wonder of California politics, Mr. Richard M. Miyon.

NIXON.

Granting that his stop-Nixon campaign opened a few beneficial fissures in a closed convention, did Stassen ever really hope to succeed as he pressed bravely onward after his own candidate, human nature will public interest in high-way safety ever overcome public apathy. And if legislators await public demand before shaping safety laws into effective, commonsensical weapons against organ-ized insanity on the highways, those laws will become about as pertinent as house rules against polygamy in bachelors' rules against polygamy in bacholors' quarters.

The ingenuity of drag racers is underestimated. Not only have they been clever enough to make private racing grounds of public highways: they have managed to escape arrest with an elaborate system of soutters to warn against approaching patrol cars. To insist on additional "fair" warning in the form of marked patrol cars is simply rifeculous.

But in the absence of public demand for toothier safety laws, the leadership will have to come from the General Assembly.

christian Herter, had come out for Nixon? Perhaps so because as a politician Mr. Stassen has always been long on hope. He was a presidential hopeful in 1948 and 1952 but he couldn't beat from bewey who, in turn, couldn't beat from bewey who, in turn, couldn't beat the Democrats—in direct combat, that is.
Perhaps Mr. Stassen had a candidate other than Herter at San Francisco. Perhaps it was Mr. Stassen. At any rate, his foriorn campaign garnered more headlines than any unexplained event since tipsy Paris Herada staffers sunk a Pacific island in one edition and, in a fit of rectitude, resurrected it in the next.
So Mr. Stassen's moratorium on poljtical talk suited us. He might as well extend it, for long before he limited his talk the political facts of life declared a moratorium on his chances of being president.
Charlotteans have seen the agins boy

Charlotteans have seen the agins boy

People's Platform

The Tardy Bus

Peace May Require

Some World Laws
Zirconia

Editors, The News:

A reader attempts to ridicule
a legislator said to advocate world government.

I do not see how we can obtain world peace without world law, and that without some form of world federal government.

Now I shall say with the hero of "Lady of The Lake" (I forget his name): "Come one, come all, and this firm rock shall fly, from its firm base, as soon as I."

-VICTOR R. ALLISON

Council's Pay Boost Was A Gross Error

It is a small spice to pay with some measure of our as-tional sovereignly for protec-tion, through law, on a world scale. Think of a world in which a dictator and an Hbomb are permitted to exist simultaneous-ly! After all, don't we as indi-viduals give up some of our sov-ercianty to MRS. R. H. LINDSEY Crown Of Thorns Is Pure Legend the 10th century." And what is generally presumed to be a crown of thorns was rather a circlet of trushes, without special to the common of thorns was rather as circlet of trushes, without special to the account of the common of the common

Prophetic Words

Russia And America

By ALEXIS DE TOCQUEVILLE
In "Democracy In America," 1835
THERE are at the present time
two great nations in the world, which started from different points, but seem to tend lowards
the same end. I allufe to the
points, but seem to tend lowards
the same end. I allufe to the
th

greatness at aimos un-time.

All other nations seem to have userly reached their natural lim-its, and they have only to main-tain their power; but these re-stib in the act of growth. All the others have stopped, or continue to advance with extreme diffi-culty; these alone are proceeding with ease and celerity along a

Blackmail Being Readied

Nobody Knows About Nasser

By MARQUIS CHILDS

REVOND CAPABILITIES

But beyond this was the Israell demand for some indication that their ships could pass through the Suez Canal when it is reopened. Since the United States cannot give such an assurance even to Britain and France, it is obvious

New Conflict Of Interest Crops Up

hower administration.

The latest is that of Robert Carr Lanphier Jr., deputy assistant secretary of defense in charge of supply and logistics.

No Resignation

and vice president of Sangamo Electric, wondered how I ever got elet a firm of which his brother is presisent six months, I wondered dent. He is also an executive of Sangamo Weston, Ltd., a British subsidiary, Other subsidiaries are Allied Tool and Machine, Sangamo Generators, Inc., and Capitol Aviation, Inc.

Now-I've Got Him By The Tail'

Special Products

Poor's Directory of business firms states that Sangamo "manufactures special products for the Department of Defense. It has done confidential work of the Department of Defense sines and the special production of the Department of Defense sines and the special production of the Department of Defense sines and track. Have tried to greap it, if against the law for a government official to accept office if he reating stock or financial interest in any company doing business with the government.

Trumon & The Section of the product of the product of the special products of the product o

The Hint

The Hint

Taking his cue from Egyptian dictator Nasser, Panama's dynamic President Ernesto de la Guardia is making moves toward taking over the Panama Canal.

He has sounded out American officials privately about nationalizing the cials privately about nationalizing the class privately about nationalizing the class privately about the control of the States, which pays Panama s. 1800.000 annually for the right of way, de la Guardia even hinted he might bring up the issue in the United Nations. He is reinforced by the fact that John Foster Dulles has already gone on record supporting Nasser's claim to the Suez Canal, which he knows would make it askward for the United States to press list rights to a similar canal remarked to the control officials and the control officials are the control officials are so concerned.

LONG about this time of year when Ait seems the slush and cold and damp bleakness of winter will never end, there sometimes comes a strange enchaniment. Out of the gray pail of a short, overcast day a magical, golden glow seemingly may appear and through it in happy array there pass the ghosts of past summers.

There are beach parties sometimes made fancy with steaks grilled over a fire of bleached driftwood, and there are songs in the night where the lighthouse beam sweeps. There is the smell of freshly cut lawn and hay, and of newly turned earth and the fragrance of a table bouquet still dewy from the garden. There is an ocean-racing fleet, its sail off to eastward and the high seas. There is the sound of thunder and the whitish look of leaves turning in the wind at the storm's approach.

There are little flags fluttering over the greens at the golf club, and the fine remembrance of tanned girls, in tennis shorts, moving with the gentle grace of a deer. There are roads that curve even