

Reds Knock Nazis Back

Say Enemy Falling Back in Disorder

With German forces now surrounded at Tatarsk, in London observers speculated on the possibly desperate situation of two German armies north and south of the caucuses, which might be subjected to devastating flank attacks in the areas around Tbilisi on the north and Kharkov on the south.

The army organ, Red Star, thus extended Soviet front lines, which "it is necessary to finish the enemy and administer such a blow that he will never be able to rise again. Complete extermination of Hitler's hordes, the complete extermination of every German occupant to the last man is our objective."

A 25,000-ton German troop transport ship is reported to have been sunk by a Russian naval unit in the Black Sea.

Leonid G. Leonid Gerson, commander of Soviet defenses in the sector southwest of Moscow, said the Germans were just about twenty miles west of the capital at this time.

Once a tank advance was halted by the desperate expedient of covering an enormous area with landing and setting it afire.

Believe Nazis Planning To Try Winter Stand

LONDON.—German armies falling back before the special forces of the Red Army, which are being trained here to be planned to attempt a winter stand on a line from the Volga Hills to Kharkov in the Ukraine.

These sources said that from this line the German army would be able to launch a counter-offensive in the spring.

GERMANS FOOLED

Well-posted informants said the Germans when they received the news that they would be stopped short of Moscow, counted on being forced merely to stand their ground because of weather, supply and transport problems.

"But what they didn't bargain for was the remarkable success and frequency of the Russian counter-offensive."

"They did not bargain for the very serious losses in men and motor transports and equipment that the Russians are inflicting on them."

"There may not be able to stop what they are doing at the positions they prepared for their 'winter front.'"

He said the Germans also were confronted with a shortage of supplies and with the loss of 100,000 men in factories to keep up output for a fighting force of 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 men on the Russian front.

The arrival of the Red Army "tough guy" troops—hardened veterans from Siberia—who was said to have helped break the German drive.

It was pointed out, too, that the "tough guy" policy left the Germans less than they had expected and forced them to undertake vast amounts of railroad and other facilities before they could be converted to the use of the invaders.

Keep Cotton Controls

WASHINGTON.—The Federal Government today said that it was in time to expand production of cotton in order to continue high marketing controls on the 1942 crop.

The quota system is designed to hold next year's cotton crop to 12,000,000 bales, 12,000,000 more than the 1941 crop.

Secretary of Agriculture Wickard has asked that strict marketing controls be continued because of a two-year supply and demand surplus. He urged Southern farmers to produce more food so that the government might be assured of ample supplies during the war.

200 miles north of Manila, had sent out patrols during the week-end in an attempt to ward off a foothold.

There was no mention, however, of further findings of Lincolns, 100 miles northwest of Manila, where General MacArthur said that the Philippine Army division had smashed a Japanese landing force, but at Aparri on the northern coast, where Japanese also had landed troops.

U. S. PLANES ATTACK

American warplanes, however, were said to have made several attacks on the island of Luzon, and to have destroyed a Japanese transport ship.

At least 10 Japanese planes were officially reported shot down over the Philippines last week, during which the island of Luzon was the target of several major attacks.

Some quarters here reported that the Japanese had landed on the Philippine island of Luzon, but that the landing was a feint to draw attention away from the main attack.

Manila itself, which had two brief raids, was said to have been hit but escaped further bombing, and appeared to be adapting itself rapidly to war-time conditions.

TENSION LESSENS

The under-the-tension and the sense of uneasiness which followed the first attack on the island of Luzon, appeared to be giving place to a calm determination to make the best of the situation.

The Philippine National Assembly, in session during the night of the attack, was said to have passed a resolution of support to the United States in the event of a German attack.

Business men are coming on here much as usual, although several hundred American women and children have been moved out of the city to places of greater safety.

Manila, though the number of people in each section has been reduced, is said to be in a state of calm, and the city is being prepared for a possible evacuation.
