Had Adolf Hitter sifted the memberahip of the United States Senate he could not have chosen a Military Affairs Committee chairman better suited to advance the Nazi cause than Robert Rice Reynolds of North Carolina.

We say this deliberately and after considering the eligibility of both Benator Wheeler and Senator Nye. Either of these men would have pleased the Nazia, but the elevation of Reynolds to his present post was a sheer stroke of Hitter luck unmatched since it failed to rain during the bills in Poland.

Americans don't prafer to fight. They had rather stay on their johs, producing clothes and automobiles, and radios, and crops. They like to at down to eat with their families, to argue about the bards and the Dodgers, and to go to shareh on Sunday. They don't like to be codered and drilled and regimented. They had rather shoot quall than people; sing fishing appeals to them more than bing jon; an Army manuver.

The Big Egg

It deem't take a public opinion poil to convince us that a large majority of the people in this country believe Adolf Hiller is trying to murfer the democracies (such as they are) of Latin America is noid blood. Every scrap of news from Mexico, Peru, Ecuador, Bolivia, and Argentina is, new evidence of the Dictator's plot to (1) distract America's attending from the Allantic supply ob and (2) aventually make all of the American republic vassal-drace of the people of the property of the property

Once again the upper house was debating the question of how long a solder should be required to serve his country. Old George might have testified on that acore, He might have testified on that acore, He might have testified on that had it not been for the utter folly of the Continentsal Congress in allowing his soldiers to ential for short terms, America might have won her freedom injuch sooner and with less expenditure of money and blood. He could have told them how, when opportunity for success was greatest, his Contonental Army melited away because of short term enliatment. His testimony would have been substantiated by the shades of Andy Jackson, Lee, and Ulysses Grant.

We have not learned our lesson which is, enlist the Army for the duration of the emergency. And the shoot of George Washington must wonder if a people washington must wonder if a people so unwilling to learn are worthy of the sounds like a large order and it and the control of th

Price Bill Delay Due

By Raymond Clapper
The rais of ruise is had that price legislation is their to mecounter more data; and more opention, then, occurred, or service indefiniteby.

This is not because senators; and Congression of the State of the Stat to whittle away the majority by simply trading around until they get command of the situation. That is the danger that President Roosevelt faces in his request for price legislation. He will get a law but the danger is that it will not be an effective law, and that it will be loaded down with gadgets which will nultify its purposes.

COMMITTEE ABSIGNMENT IS UNCESTAIN

COMMITTEE ASSIGNMENT IS UNCERTAIN
The situation is so bad that House leaders refused to say in advance to what committee the price bill would be referred. The lifes was to protect manbers of the committee as long as possible from having the heat turned on them by these special groups.

Sems of the farm members intend to use the price institution as a vehicle for hauling up the price of farm products again. One scheme now alcot is to altach a rider to the price bill for retus upward the parity basis which is used far Gavernneral price-preging of farm products. One of these schemes would raise the parity price for cetten from altaces cents to mars than twenty cents a pound, although cettern now is selling higher than in ten years. Recently Congress shored up the pricepreging basis by requiring the Gorprigring basis by requiring the Gov-ernment to make crop loans at $5 per cent as before.

FARM BLOC ALREADY HAS FORCED ONE SURRENDER

HAS FORCED ONE SURRENDER
The Administration already has surrendered to the farm bloc by emitting from its price-control legislation the question of farm prices. Now, not content with this omission, which in itself creates an unsound condition, an effort apparently is to be made to add some effects boating amandmental to. creates an unsound constitue, an erlord apparently is to be made to add some price-boosting amendments to a bill whose whole purpose is to hold prices in line. The farm legislatory see, not satisfied with even 85 per cent of parity as Government price-preging levil. They are now after full parity loans. Furthermore they want to bring up the parity basis from the prefers 100-14 standard to a 190-29 basis, which would show up the base line considerable). Cotton interests are campaigning for a law which would probabil the sale of Government-lived cotton for less than 36 1-2 cents a pound, althous cotton now is around evention counts a very seen and control of the standard commits a year sap. Those interested in other commodities will be similarly on the Job.

SUPPLY AND DEMAND NO LONGER WORKS

NO LONGER WORKS

As to the need ofer restraint on prices, there can scarrely be any argument.
The defense program has made the law of supply and demand unportable. The Government must have defense goods regardless of price. These goods must be laken largely out of normal civilian production. That leaves an acute shortage in many lines, If uncontrolled, prices would go through the roof by natural bidding among those scrambling for the would go introught the stort by ratural bidding among those actimabiling for the limited available suppliet. It is happening now with this, for instance, in a some articles a price increase will attimute additional production. But was have passed that point and further price increase will not materially expand production of shost defense raw materials. Wages cannot be left out of the price alluadien, Yet il is not likely that Congress will de more than state a general policy in this regard, without riving any specific authority. It might not be practicable to place the wage question directly under the price Administrator. But the medium board or some other agenty will have to work in close re-operation with the price. In close co-operation with the price agency if we are to escape being caught in a wage-price movement in which wages and the price level work to boost each other.
