Hospitality

Cities and Towns Paramount It to Local Customs

For the first time ever, the movies re open on Sundays in Rockincham. The same is true of many another city and fown in the maneuver area of the farolinas, not because they have thrown of the straight and narrow doctrine of helr fathers but for reasons, in a word.

I hospitality.

It does them credit. It does credit to the people of these cities and towns, to the people of these cities and design, who saw the problem of soldier-enter-lationent in a practical light. It does credit to their ministers who subordi-nated their own rigid codes to the in-junction: Be not forgetful to entertain atrangers.

We can make no guarantee that the rast of the verse will apply 6... for shereby some have entertained angels encouraged but it is of no great consequence in this case. What is of prime-importance in both a physical and spiritual sense is that the coldiers shall have every possible means of passing time in a wholesome, diverting, recreational manner made available to them without stint of local custom.

stint of local custom.

And afterward, when the maneuvers are over and the soldiers have departed, let me one attempt to take advantage of the concession that has been made easily propose so seep the theaters open. This would be untair, and in such a same even TRN News, a long-time advanced of the benefits of recreational Bundays, could be in favor of reverting be the old order first and from that point working whatever changes had been found to be desirable.

We have never entertained a very high opinion of Edward, who, in time of great world crisis, preferred to solve his own personal problem with no par-ticular regard for the millions of peo-ples who looked to him as the symbol of Empire. He let his people down.

There is, however, little merit in con-ucting a post mortem of the affair. The harm that it did—the shaking of the Empire at a time when otherwise it was none too secure—is a matter of rec-ard, not of immediate concern.

Stoatika on Our Nozis

When the Nazis want to banish an American newspaper reporter and haven's programment of anything on him their favorite technique is to accuse him of sending out like about Germany. It does not matter if the correspondent has been stelling the iruth, the truth is frequentially and officially "a lie" in Germany And Yee versa.

It is not surprising, therefore, that many Berliners have been sold on the story that all Germans in America are esseptised by the Government to wear essentially the Covernment to war the Swattha. By their almost reckless haste to get into the Crimea and assure themselves a jumping-off place for an attack on the Caucasu, the Naris make it perfectly clear that they are thirsty, for oil. The Russians speak of alsuphtering the attacking Germans, but still the gray-green tide comes on.

It is no longer strictly a land battle. The Narl High Command knows that only by capturing the Crimean maxis and the strictly a land battle. The Narl High Command knows that only by capturing the Crimean maxis and the Black Sea be effectively broken. Once all of the bottle-necked peninsula is in German hands, the Luttucaffe, even with only meager support from whatever naval forces the Axis may assemble in the Black Sea, and ominate that body of water. Apparently, though, he'd always bern told to take off his those before going in the water. But there was a kind in one of his lacks. It bariled him. So leaving baby sister in the water, he ran home to Mans and asked the rounted his shoe. The scouled is errouraging: Was Edwards managed to get Sister out in time to save her by artificial respiration.

Thus it is with our own great democracy we have the best of intentions about saving our endoncered sixter nations. But when the time comes to do something in a tiffy, there is always a knot in our shoclaces and we are thwards on the control of th
