'Ringing Statement'

By Hugh S. Johnson

The ringing opening statement of Vice-President Wallace's SPAR, or super super defense board—the so-called 1941 board—was good.

In the first place, what is most needed now is more rhetoric and more action.

In the second place, the announcements, almost as new discoveries, of policies effective and successfully applied in 1918 (such as conservation, standardization, reclamation, plant operation, and intelligent priorities) raise some doubt about whether these boys yet know or even suspect what it is all about.

In the third place, all the emphasis here is how "Japs essential" uses are to be absolutely subordinated to military requirements.

'CUTTING THE COAT TO SUIT THE CLOTH'

There is an old proverb about "cutting the coat to suit the cloth." We are embarked on a military program of between 50 and 60 billion dollars.

The Case For Intervention

By Dorothy Thompson

NOTE: This is the first of a series entitled "Intervention: A Case For It" by Dorothy Thompson, Editor, The News.

In a previous article I referred to the conclusion of intervention that arises from the use of inaccurate, falsely descriptive phrases such as "European War" and "Western Hemisphere."

Clarifying Interventions

Actually, there are two viewpoints in America regarding the means by which we should defend ourselves, and regarding our position in the world.

Demanding A "Realistic" Foreign Policy

Who are called interventionists, drawing our conclusions from the industrial revolution, and the distribution of capital, science and technology all over the globe.

Hitler Is Corralled

By Raymond Clapper

At the beginning of the third year of the Nazi regime, Hitler had a bull's head in a pan from which he had not yet drunk.

The fact that the Nazi regime is very large does not mean that it is a bull's head in a pan.

So large is the scale on which the war is now being fought that the nations are not always clear.

A Decoy?

Was the Greer Incident An Axis Diversion Attempt?

As far as most of us outsiders know, the attempted torpedoing of the U. S. destroyer Greer is still a mystery.
