

O'BRIEN CAST IN GOOD ROLE AS BENEDICT

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What makes Sam, Benedict run? Rather what keeps Sam, who is also Edmond O'Brien, running? Watchers of the new Saturday night court show may wonder how he does it.

Never a static actor, O'Brien is amazingly kinetic as the hard-driving, soft-bested San Francisco attorney. It is a fascinating performance, and well worth sitting through the sometimes ensnared plots to watch.

SIX-DAY WEEK

"How do I do it?" said the actor. "I do nothing else. Since we started last June, I've had four full days off. We've done a lot of locations in San Francisco, where we work a six-day week. Even when we work here, I have to spend the weekends studying scripts—I've got to learn 80 pages a week!

"I work all day on the set, go home, have a shower, eat dinner in bed and study the next day's lines.

"My kids are beginning to call me 'uncle'."

HAS NO REGRETS

It's pleasing to note that O'Brien doesn't complain unlike other television stars who gripe as they earn tidy fortunes. He knew what he was getting into, and he has no regrets.

He didn't really need a series. Last year he worked at hefty salaries in "Moon Pilot," "The Man Who Shot Liberty Bells" and "The Longest Day," and directed a film at Paramount. Business has always been brisk for the Oscar winner ("Barefoot Contessa," 1954).

HITS PARKED TRUCK

Borough police reported that at 3:55 o'clock Friday afternoon a car being driven by Jimmie Ray Riding, of Maryland, stopped on S. Washington St. for the traffic light at the Chambersburg St. intersection, that he then attempted to back up to permit a truck to enter Washington St. and his car struck a parked N.O. Sixes furniture store truck, causing $5 damage to the truck.

State's School Directors Applaud Scranton Stand On Reorganization Plan

By FRED WALTERS

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pennsylvania's gubernatorial candidates had no surprises for the state's school board members Thursday night.

Republican William W. Scranton reiterated his approach that the 1961 compulsory school reorganization act should be postponed for one year to work out corrective legislation.

Democrat Richardson Dilworth reaffirmed his support of the act and opposition to any delay. The 1965 effective date of the act leaves plenty of time to work out shortcomings, he said.

Scranton was applauded by the directors.

MIXED REACTION

Dilworth was greeted with mixed bows and applause, a mixture the audience served up periodically through his address.

Neither candidate supported repeal of the act, something that a good many of the directors would like but are beginning to feel they won't get.

The speeches given by the candidates were similar to ones they gave Oct. 10 in Harrisburg before the Governor's Committee of 100 for Better Education.

HIGHER TEACHER PAY

Both endorsed higher teacher pay—Dilworth once again stated he favored a $4,800 minimum starting salary — and increased state aid.

This latter proposal was the only one that drew only applause for Dilworth from the nearly 2,000 gown of white opaque silk, styled with a fitted bodice, scoop neckline and long tapered sleeves to the wrist. The neckline and center front of the bodice was trimmed with re-embroidered Alencon lace, sparkled with a sequin and rhinestone trim. The back of the gown was finished with two roses of the fabric with a drape cascade starting at the neckline and flowing chapel train. Her French illusion veil edged in baby lace fell from an open style coronation crown of small pearls. She carried a flowing cascade bouquet of white roses and feathered carnations with ivy.

Miss Louise Weigel, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a street-length gown of aqua lace over taffeta with matching bodice jacket of clip veil. She carried a bouquet of aqua tinted carnations.

The bridesmaids were Miss Patricia Weigel and Miss Betty Hoff, sisters of the bride and bridegroom, and wore aqua lace over taffeta gowns and clip veils. They also carried aqua carnations.

Mothers of the bride and bridegroom wore beige outfits with brown accessories and corsages of bronze pompons.

Gary May, Hanover, was best man and the ushers were Earl Rhoads Jr. and Larry Hoff. Wayne Sherrick was the ring bearer.

lem peacefully in line with the charter of the United Nations." Khrushchev answered: "We accept your proposal, and have ordered the masters of Soviet vessels bound for Cuba but not yet within the area of the American warships' practical activities to stay out of the interception area, as you recommend."

But Khrushchev insisted that the arrangement must be temporary.

AVOID CONTACT

Thant informed Kennedy of his appeal to the Soviet premier and asked him to do all possible to avoid a "direct confrontation with Soviet ships in the next few days in order to avoid direct risk of an untoward incident."

Kennedy replied: "If the Soviet government accepts and abides by your request that Soviet ships already on their way to Cuba stay away from the interception area for the limited time required for preliminary discussions, you may be assured that this government will accept and abide by your request."

"I must inform you, however, that this is a matter of great urgency in view of the fact that certain Soviet ships are still proceeding toward Cuba and the interception area," Kennedy added.

In a dogged effort to keep the crisis from exploding, Thant held a double round of talks with both the United States and the Soviet Union Friday. But there was no indication whether he was meeting with any success.

Panes Replaced By Fiberglass

NEW YORK (AP) — Thanks to a growing trend toward shatterproof and translucent fiber glass in place of glass, a generation of window breakers may be standing on the brink of frustration.

New York City in 1960 and 1961 spent $1,349,680 to replace 340,811 panes of broken glass in school buildings. Now the city has approved use of the new material for replacement of window panes in older schools, after a year of testing in a Brooklyn school.

ONLY CONCESSION

About the only concession the school directors gave him was that he displayed courage and conviction in defense of his views. But the many who stopped to compliment him on his stand as he left the convention, none said he had won their vote for governor.

Dilworth only briefly in his actual address touched on a point that he had raised in prepared remarks: a claim that Republican school boards were drawing up "sloppy" reorganization plans to embarrass the Democrats on the issue.
