Old Indian Burial Find in S.A.

A prehistoric Indian kitchen-midden and burial mound, estimated to be more than 3,000 years old, has been found in north-east San Antonio.

Officials of Witte Memorial Museum, in charge of the site, rate it as being "one of the most important archeological finds in this area."

The mound, in the path of the Loop 410 Freeway on the banks of the Salado Creek, was discovered when bulldozer crews were clearing the land on the freeway.

THREE SKULLS
So far, according to Mrs. Marjorie Schuetz, the museum's curator of archeology and anthropology, three skulls have been taken from the "dig."

One almost complete skeleton is now being unearthed.

More accurate dating of the relics will have to await Carbon 14 tests, Witte officials said.

The almost complete skeleton, lying five feet below the surface, is of major interest, Mrs. Schuetz said.

PROBABLY HUNCHBACK
"The vertebrae are fused, and this indicates the individual was probably a hunchback," she said.

The site will give valuable information on the ancient Indians of South Texas, she predicted.

In the midden area, which is an ancient camp and cooking site, numerous "projectile points" have been found.

SIGHTSEERS GATHER
The site drew scores of sightseers all day Sunday, and many arrowheads were carried away by amateurs and curiosity seekers.

Professional archeologists say they are not sure how many individual burials will be found at the site.

Besides projectile points, one of the burials contained what Harvey Kohnitz, who assisted in the digging, described as "a gorgeous clamshell gorget," or medallion.

Areas hardest hit were Boerne, Seguin and New Braunfels.

FARM DAMAGE

A windmill was blown down, a grain bin was picked up by the winds and carried 300 feet across a field and a chimney was toppled at the Harborth farm, 8 miles north of Seguin.

In the same area, winds crumpled a large tin implement shed housing four tractors and three trucks on the Neumann farm. Chimneys also were toppled. Parts of the shed were scattered over a 1,000-foot area.

There also was wind damage at the Milton Lemke place near Boerne, north of San Antonio. The storm hit the rural area about 11:45 a.m. Sunday.

There was no damage in Seguin.

In New Braunfels, roofing was ripped from the Imperial Motor Hotel, plate glass windows were blown out at the Ford motor agency and two large trees at Land Park were toppled. More than 2 inches of rain fell.

TORNADO REPORTS
There were reports of hail in New Braunfels and at Selma, located between San Antonio and New Braunfels.

The Weather Bureau said it had reports of a tornado Sunday morning about 7 miles south of Boerne, north of San Antonio. An airplane hangar was blown down, trees were uprooted and a barn was pushed across a road by high winds.

About 5 inches of rain fell and hail covered the ground.

There was no storm activity in San Antonio.

From other points in the outlying area came these reports of Sunday rainfall: Kendall 1.38, Gonzales 1.59, Lackhart 1.21, Camp Verde 1.91, Lackhart 1.27, Nixon 1.32, Floresville 1.43 and Luling 1.94.

India to Receive U.S. Arms

NEW DELHI (AP)—India turned to the United States Monday for weapons to fight the Communist Chinese and was assured they would be sent soon.

Prime Minister Nehru asked U. S. Ambassador John Kenneth Galbraith for the weapons and an American embassy spokesman said Galbraith indicated they are coming.

Almost simultaneously an Indian spokesman announced the loss of Demechok, the farthest thrust the Chinese have made southward, at the western end of the fighting front.

2,000 TO 2,500

The spokesman estimated between 2,000 and 2,500 Indian soldiers are dead or missing since the Chinese launched their offensive Oct. 20 and added the Chinese are believed to have suffered much heavier casualties.

Reinforcements were being rushed to Se Pass to try to head off at least one 10,000-man Chinese division moving from the key northeast border town of Towang, lost last week.

Despite setbacks such as the loss of Demechok India refused offers of mediation of the undeclared war with China.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said "no self-respecting country, and certainly not India with its love of freedom, can submit to Chinese aggression, whatever may be the consequences, nor can India allow China's occupation of Indian territory to be used as a bargaining counter for dictating to India a settlement of differences regarding the boundary on China's terms."

U. S. WEAPONS
American infantry weapons for the Indian defenders in the Himalayas may begin arriving by air by the end of this week, it was understood.

The terms on which the weapons will be supplied were left open, a U.S. Embassy spokesman said. In the past India has insisted on paying for weapons but now there is no cash and a desperate need for arms.

Galbraith delivered to Nehru a letter from President Kennedy expressing sympathy for India in its present emergency and "something more tangible," the spokesman said. In response Nehru made the first direct request for American arms.

NEXT STAND

If the line at Se Pass does not hold, the next stand for the beleaguered Indians probably will be at Bomdila, last important pass on the way to the Assam Plains.

A fair road connects Bomdila with the plains, enabling the Indian army to bring up light tanks and overcome a supply weakness partly responsible for some of the steady reverses of the nine-day-old border war.

8,000 March Near U.N. Home

NEW YORK (AP)—More than 8,000 demonstrators appeared in the vicinity of the United Nations building Sunday. Many carried signs denouncing the U.S. naval blockade of Cuba, while other placards urged a "pause for peace."

Two dozen anti-Castro Cubans broke through police lines and tore up some of the signs. Meanwhile, about 300 anti-Castro demonstrators paraded across the street from the United Nations urging a U.S. invasion of Cuba.

Draft Felt A Little Bit Late

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—William R. Cantrell said he would tell his draft board today he has no intention of going to war and it would be a mistake to call him up.

"I'd do 'em a heap of good," he snorted after getting a draft notice in the mail. Cantrell is 50.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy set up a special three-man committee Monday to handle negotiations looking toward an end of the Cuban crisis.

Kennedy designated John J. McCloy, whom he previously had appointed special assistant to U.N. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson during the period of the Cuban emergency, as chairman of the group.

The other members are Undersecretary of State George W. Ball and Deputy Secretary of Defense Roswell L. Gilpatric.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger described the group as "a coordinating committee to give full time and attention to the matters involved in the conclusion of the Cuban crisis."

Report to JFK

He said the group would report directly to the President but act under the supervision of the three officials concerned. These are Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, and Stevenson.

Ball and Gilpatric left for New York after attending the daily meeting of the executive committee of the National Security Council this morning. McCloy already was in New York.

Salinger said the coordinating committee would function in New York.

The press secretary said it would be concerned with "implementing the letters of President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev."

In these letters, exchanged over the weekend, Soviet Premier Khrushchev pledged dismantling of Soviet bases in Cuba and a halt to the delivery of offensive weapons to the Castro regime in return for an end to the U.S. blockade and a no-invasion pledge.

Deputy Sent

Khrushchev has dispatched Deputy Foreign Minister Vassily Kuznetsov to the United Nations to work with Acting Secretary-General U Thant in dealing with the many details involved in a settlement.

Salinger said he had no information as to whether McCloy, Ball and Gilpatric would accompany U Thant to Havana Tuesday to meet with Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro and devise methods of confirming that the Soviets' offensive weapons are removed.

The National Security Council's executive committee met for an hour today and will continue to convene daily at the White House for the time being, Salinger said.

Thundershowers continued along the coast and on the South Plains early Monday.

The forecasts called for considerable cloudiness over the state Monday with widely scattered showers in the central and east portions and in East Texas Monday night. Slightly cooler temperatures were predicted for the state Tuesday night. Clear to partly cloudy weather was forecast for Tuesday.
